ARMY ENGINEERS HELP FIGHT FLOOD. With the Mississippi river area south of St. Louis declared in a critical situation, over 100-million dollars in damage to crops and soil already recorded and more than 35,000 homeless in the midwest floods. Army engineers at Chouteau Island, Ill, join the battle against the rising waters. Above, a team of engineers transfer sandbags from Army barges to highway patrol trucks to be rushed to critical points along levees.

Campers Marooned In Delaware County

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., June 30—A flash flood on a creek marooned a family of five Columbus residents two miles south of Galena last night. They were rescued six hours later by state highway patrolmen and Delaware county deputies.

The victims were Lonnie and Cora Brush, both 70, Charles and Lucille Brush, both 35, and Roy Brush, 12. They had been camping over the weekend and when the creek filled up as a result of sudden heavy rains they took refuge in their car. Soon this was surrounded by water.

They were given shelter in nearby farms.

Mississippi Reaches 103-Year Record as Fresh Warning Sent

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, June 30—The Mississippi river climbed to a new 103-year record here today and U S army engineers warned that the battle for two remaining "critical" levees in this area was "far from over" with another crest pouring down from the mouth of the Missouri river

A brief earthquake at 11 25:14 p m yesterday brought the threat of breaks to watersoaked barriers holding back the river from thousands of acres of rich farmland on the Illinois side but the engineers said no levees were reported damaged by the tremors which lasted about five seconds.

The Chouteau Island levee, guarding 2,000 acres across from North St. Louis, broke at two points today but engineers said other barriers would keep water out of the nearby Venice and Granite City industrial areas

More Volunteers Sought

Fresh appeals for volunteers were made by the engineers in their efforts to save dikes south of East St Louis and 100 miles south of Chester, Ill, while hundreds of persons were evacuated from their homes ahead of the flood

The river reached 39 3 feet here and Harry F Wahlgren, chief meteorologist, predicted the stage would be 39 5 later today A brief fall was reported by a spokesman for the engineers earlier but the weather bureau gage showed the rise was continuing Alltime high here was 41 3 in 1844

At least 1,000 persons were homeless in St. Louis and St. Louis county with the Red Cross setting up four temporary shelters to house the victims.

Earthquake Heightens Tension

The earthquake added to the tenseness of the situation although it apparently had no connection with the flood No serious damage was reported Police said they had one report of a chimney collapsing from the shock Downtown buildings, hotels and hospitals were shaken by the quake as well as smaller homes

Railroad yards, warehouses small factories and homes along the north and south St. Louis waterfront were under water or

Pork Chops Up 78 Per Cent As U. S. Ends First OPA-less Year

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 30—On this first anniversary of the end of federal price controls, pork on the dinner table costs 78 per cent more than it did a year ago, beef and veal 62 per cent more.

Other food, clothing, and living costs in general also have undergone sharp rises, trade and government figures show. Within the year, many prices zoomed to record peaks, topping the highs of the 1919-20 post war period

Market and retail supplies are higher in many lines, but farm supplies of livestock are lower than a year ago and cold storage stocks of many foods are lower. Such commodities as steel, oil and lumber still lag far behind demand requirements

Meat Supply Short

Referring to meat prices, the American Meat Institute said in a statement:

"Ordinarily the present supply of meat would be reasonably adequate. However, an unprecedented demand has made the average supply level inadequate."

With 1926 prices as a base average of 100, The Associated Press wholesale prices index Friday was 175.66. A year ago the figure was 122.28. This represents an increase of 43.6 per cent in the year. The highest was reached in March at 184.32.

A compilation by the federal bureau of labor statistics shows that for May, the most recent calculation available, this index was at 155.8 on a 1935-39 base average of 100. Throughout the war period up to a year ago the index had advanced 33.3 points. In the ensuing year it went up 22 5 points.

All cost of living items included in the index averaged 16 9 per cent above last June, with major items like food 28 8 per cent higher, clothing 17.3, and household furnishings 16.3.

Specifically, meats in general are 52 2 per cent more, fish 161.1, chicken 10 3, dairy products 16, eggs 21 6, fruits and vegetables 12 8, beverages 50 6, fats and oils 58 6, and sugar and sweets 31.6 higher.

Trade groups assert the various indices are unrealistic because, they say, these compute prices during the OPA period on the basis of ceilings when prices in "black markets" were above ceiling.

Spring wheat at Minneapolis closed up to $2.02½ a bushel last Thursday; a year ago it was $1.38½. Dark hard wheat Saturday at Kansas City was up to $2.66¾ compared with $2.01¾ a bushel under ceiling. Within the last week No. 2 yellow corn at Chicago was $2.23½ a bushel on the cash market, compared with $1.66½ under the ceiling.

U.S. PULLS OUT AS OPERATOR OF COAL MINES

Returns Pits to Owners in Same Conditon Found—Empty of Workers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—The government lowered the American flags over more than 2,500 soft coal mines today and formally restored the pits to the private owners after 13 months of federal operation

The contract dispute which prompted federal seizure of the mines May 22, 1946 still was unsettled, however, and another strike at conclusion of the current 10-day vacation July 8 is a definite prospect.

With the government stepping aside as operator, it will be up to the owners themselves to make terms with the miners If they don't succeed by July 8, the miners are expected to stay home.

The government gives back the mines in the same condition it found them 13 months ago—empty of workers.

Forced to step out of the pits at noon with final expiration of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes law, one federal agency thus gets rid of the coal headache but another is ready to tackle the still unsettled contract war between John L Lewis and the operators

The coal mines administration folds up with the end of government operation, leaving Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and his conciliation service the only official connection with the dispute.

Schwellenbach will try to mediate a new contract to avert the threat of a full-blown strike eight days hence.

The mines were seized May 22, 1946, after futile efforts to settle a strike which had been in progress since April 1, a week later, Lewis signed a contract with Secretary of the Interior Krug, ending that walkout and sending the 400,000 soft coal miners back to work for Uncle Sam

Now Lewis and the operators still are at odds over terms of a contract under which the mines could be worked next week.

Now on Vacation

The pits currently are closed down for a 10-day vacation which started Saturday under terms of the Krug-Lewis contract Each miner got $100 and 10 days off The 75,000 Pennsylvania anthracite miners who made a contract with their operators without seizure a year ago, also are on a similar 10-day vacation.

But unless a contract is signed by Lewis and the soft coal operators, the bituminous miners may stay out indefinitely instead of reporting back to work on July 8

Most of the soft coal operators would be delighted to settle for the terms which Krug gave Lewis last year But Lewis wants more than that.

Has Big Demands

He wants a 35 cents hourly wage increase and an 8-hour day, instead of the present 9-hour day and 54-hour week He also wants to double the nickel-a-ton royalty for the miners' welfare and retirement fund At five cents a ton, the fund is getting $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 annually.

Just as the operators and Lewis were unable to come to agreement in the spring of 1946, they have been unable to see eye-to-eye this year.

Two of the most powerful figures in the industry are reported to have offered Lewis the full 35-cent hourly increase and an eight-hour day at private, secret talks last Friday Lewis was represented as having turned that down, however, and to have insisted on pressing some of his other demands as well

Growing Coal Shortage Idles U. S. Steel Plants

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, June 30 — A growing coal shortage caused the forced idleness of more than 16,000 steel and railroad employes today as the U. S. formally returned the nation's vacation-closed soft coal mines to their owners.

Neighbors Finish Work Death Halted

Neighbors took up last week where death had called a halt to planting on the Richard Gearhiser farm east of Waldo. Mr. Gearhiser was killed in a tractor accident Monday. On Friday neighbors brought nine tractors and with them prepared fields and planted 25 acres of soybeans.

Those working on the farm were Fred Seiger, Arthur Hutchins, Fred Thullen, Joe Brindagle, Elza Smith, Ray Smith, Burdette Mohr, George Smith and Kenneth Smith.

Mr. Gearhiser was killed Monday evening when he apparently fell from his tractor while plowing.

Many War Emergency Laws Go On Junk Heap Tomorrow

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—Tomorrow is "six months after declaration of the cessation of hostilities," and out the window go a number of wartime emergency laws. They include the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act.

It also marks the beginning of fiscal 1948, with many departments and agencies facing personnel cuts and function curbs in line with reduced appropriations.

Virtually every department of government surrenders some of its war powers whose life span was limited to six months after hostilities were declared ended President Truman declared the cessation on Dec 31, 1946

The war and navy departments themselves are not seriously affected Most legislation concerned with the armed services provides for continuance in time of war or emergencies Only "hostilities" have been declared at an end The end of the "war" has not been proclaimed

Seizure Power Gone

Of all the laws affected by the 'six months after hostilities' termination, the Smith-Connally act is of the greatest interest It was the law that permitted President Truman to seize the struck coal mines on May 21 1946 and turn them over to the interior department for operation

With the expiration of this law Interior Secretary J A Krug is returning the mines to the private operators today

Dying with this law also is the requirement that labor unions file with the secretary of labor and the national labor relations board a 30-day notice of intention to strike

The labor department said, however that it would continue its strike notice unit to bridge the gap until Aug 22, when the new Taft-Hartley labor law provision on strike notices goes into effect.

Hatch Act Lapses

Two sections of the Hatch act, forbidding political activity by federal employes, also go into the discard over the six months clause These prohibit the sending of political propaganda to members of the armed forces, but forbid censure to delete political arguments from letters

A survey of executive departments and agencies shows these other changes as of July 1, as a result of war powers termination, expiration of law, or reorganization orders:

War—Entry of servicemen's gift packages up to $50. Value free of duty ends

Navy—An end to the prohibition against suits for damages caused by navy vessels, when the prosecution of such suits would endanger the security of naval operations

Administration Shift Set

Labor—Unless the senate vetoes a presidential order by midnight tonight, the U S employment service is placed permanently in the labor department and the functions of the wage-hour administrator are placed under control of the secretary.

Agriculture—Two major war food orders expire — restrictions on the use of wheat to manufacture feed, and on the use of rye and wheat by distillers All war food orders, including rice controls, are out, although raw sugar distribution and sugar price controls remain

Federal Housing Agency—Eleven of 12 sections of Patman housing act expire, the remaining section governing FHA financing The housing expediter's office, with drastic cuts in personnel, is being maintained to administer rent control act, to continue veterans' preference in housing, and to restrict amusement and entertainment construction. Expiring are orders affecting speculative building, permits and size and cost of construction

LIE, SAYS JONES OF BLACK LEGION STORY

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., June 30—A labor leader's affidavit that he inducted Rep Robert F. Jones into the Black Legion was labelled "a most vicious and malicious lie" by the Ohio congressman today.

Jones' statement was given to Robert C Barton, managing editor of the Lima News.

Glenn E Webb, a member of the executive board of the Lima local of the CIO United Electrical Workers, signed an affidavit Saturday stating he inducted Jones into the Black Legion in a farm house near here "about 1935."

Editor Barton quoted Jones, Republican who has been nominated to the federal communications commission, as saying that Webb was attempting to "destroy a person whom he could not control in public life."

Jones declared the CIO had "spent an estimated $25,000" in an attempt to defeat him in the last election.

The Lima News managing editor said Webb signed the affidavit in the presence of him and Robert Waldron, another member of the News' staff.

The News said the affidavit read as follows:

"I, Glenn E. Webb, being duly sworn, swear on oath that I initiated Robert F. Jones into the Black Legion on the Tapecott farm east of Lima, O.

"Robert Jones kneeled before me, where I could see him face-to-face, with a gun at his back according to our ritual as he accepted the oath of obligation. The ceremony took place around 1935."

Editor Barton said that the form of the affidavit was dictated over the telephone by Drew Pearson, Washington columnist and radio commentator. Pearson testified against Jones' nomination to the FCC last week when he appeared before a senate commerce sub-committee.

Barton explained that the affidavit was signed in the CIO headquarters here and that he and Waldron appeared there at the invitation of union leaders.

Webb remarked that in fairness to Jones he wanted to say that

It's No Crime, Galion Boy, 5, Just Likes To Ride in Trunk

A "crime" was nipped in the bud this morning when Galion police notified state highway patrolmen here at 9 25 a. m. that a Galion man had been seen putting a 5-year-old boy in the trunk of a car then he locked the trunk and headed west on route 30-S.

Patrolmen radioed the message, describing the car and gave orders to investigate on authority of Galion police.

The search for the Galion car got under way immediately. It was located about an hour later parked in front of the owner's home.

There was no little boy in the trunk—but there had been.

It seems the youngster started riding in the trunk compartment of the car when the family returned from a picnic and the front seat of the car was too crowded. Now, the father told Galion police, he can hardly get him in the front seat because it's more fun back in the trunk with the lid propped open for air.

The radio alarm was canceled.

GOVERNOR SAYS LAW IN ACTION, "UNWORKABLE"

Tells Legislature Sen. Taft Agrees; Little Chance of Overriding.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—The Van Aken bill, proposing to restrict the authority of labor unions in Ohio, was vetoed by Gov. Thomas J Herbert today on the ground it was ambiguous and unworkable.

The measure, enacted in the current session of the legislature, "would lead to too much confusion in its application," he explained.

The governor said that Senator Robert A. Taft, co-author of the federal Taft-Hartley labor control bill, agreed with him.

There was no likelihood that the legislature, winding up its session today, would pass the measure over the governor's veto.

The governor announced he was asking the postwar program commission to inquire into the labor-management relations situation and report to him its recommendations as soon as possible.

Special Session Possible

He said that if the recommendations warranted a special session of the legislature to enact new legislation to carry out the recommendations, he would call the legislators back into session

The state labor control bill was sponsored by Rep William R. Van Aken, Cleveland Republican.

The measure, revised in the senate after its introduction in the house, was approved 20 to 12 by the senate. The house concurred, 73 to 42.

Passage over the governor's veto would require 22 favorable votes in the senate and 84 in the house.

The measure, enacted in the current session of the legislature and bitterly assailed by labor leaders, would have required unions to give financial reports to the secretary of state' prohibited secondary boycotts, featherbedding and mass picketing, permitted unions to be sued and barred Communists and ex-convicts without citizenship from holding union offices.

Signs Kowalk Bill

The governor signed the Kowalk bill, relaxing regulations for the employment of women and children. He said the measure did not extend their weekly working hours

Herbert said he had talked with Senator Robert A. Taft, co-author of the federal Taft-Hartley labor bill, and that the senator agreed with him that the Van Aken bill was unworkable.

"I arrived at my conclusions, regardless of, rather than because of, organized opposition," the governor explained.

"The bill is ambiguous in many respects and would lead to too much confusion in its application.

"There is complete accord between Senator Taft and myself, both as to the Taft-Hartley bill and this bill."

The governor stated that he strongly favored workable legislation for labor relations.

Orders Special Report

He announced that he would call the postwar program commission into session next week and direct it immediately to start a study of labor-management relations and to report to him as soon as possible its recommendations.

"If I think a special session of the legislature is necessary to carry out those recommendations, I will call it," he told newsmen.

Governor Herbert announced that legislation increasing salaries of elective state officials and legislators would be permitted to become a law without his signature.

The salary boosts would give the governor $13,000 annually, lieutenant governor $4,000, attorney general, treasurer, auditor and secretary of state, each $8,500 and legislators $2,600. The increases would not be effective until start of the next terms in those posts.

Five Nominations Up

At least five nominations will be sent to the senate by Herbert for confirmation. They include:

Dale Dunlion, new administrator of the bureau of unemployment compensation at state liquor director.

Simon L. Leis, 50-year-old Cincinnati attorney, as a member of the state liquor control board to succeed the late William B. Hess, Cincinnati.

Clyde C. Sherick, Ashland, 62-year-old member of the state pardon and parole commission, as a member of the state board of tax appeals, effective Aug. 1, to succeed William J. Ford, who will be retained as an attorney-examiner for the board.

Lawrence B. Hackenberg, 37, Cleveland, new executive secretary to the governor, to succeed Sherick on the state pardon and parole commission, effective Aug.

Bikini Bomb Near Right Size

It May Be Pattern for Ones Used in Future Warfare.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, June 30—The first Bikini bomb, exploded a year ago today (it was July 1 at Bikini), may be the size that will be used mostly to fight atomic wars of the future, instead of the greater bombs which scientists have been predicting.

This forecast is made for the war department general staff, by Dr. R. E. Lapp, of the research development division. The Bikini bomb was average for all five used to date. The prediction is based on the fact that most military targets will not need bigger atom bombs, coupled with the probability that greater bombs would be wasting money.

Along parallel lines today is a navy viewpoint, written by Rear Admiral W. S. Parsons, director of atomic defense, U. S. N., telling the difficulties in producing weapons more deadly than the present bombs, whether these weapons are atomic powered or not.

Dr. Lapp gives two military reasons why present-size atom bombs are likely to be used. One is the fact that two small bombs can do more damage than one bomb twice the size. This fact also has been pointed out in congressional testimony by scientists. Present bombs are the very smallest it is possible to make, but nevertheless are in a class completely different from anything previous.

The other reason for using these baby-atom-bombs is that one is enough for many of the sort of military targets now conceived. In fact at present the bomb may be too large for some military targets, such as a small-area strong point.

The baby bombs are big enough to envision a new development in war, namely killing a lot of people in a city instead of directly attacking the war factories in or around the city.

Dr. Lapp estimates that an average of 50,000 deaths can be expected from one bomb dropped on a city, plus another 50,000 serious injuries. This might be tried, he says, where the killing and maiming of civilians, with the great disruption of normal living to be expected, would reduce the number of workers enough to paralyze production.

Crawford County Children's Home Program Chosen As Example for Others In State

CHILDREN'S HOME SINGERS. The glee club of the Crawford county children's home is unique in the state. The group has made several appearances in Crawford and nearby counties, and has sung on radio programs. Seated at the piano is Mrs. Charles Hinckley, accompanist and composer of the glee club theme song. Superintendent Adams, director, is second from the left in the second row, and Mrs. Adams is second from left in the front row.

CHILDREN'S HOME RECREATION. Superintendent and Mrs. Marvin Adams of the Crawford county children's home are shown with their mounts, accompanied by two children from the home. Occupying a major place in the recreational program of the home is horsemanship. Children at the home are honorary members of Buckeye Rangers.

GALION—"It's so interesting out there, that I would like to go there and stay," was the expressed wish of a Galion teacher during one of her recent visits to the Crawford county children's home located here. And it is the opinion of many adults who have had the occasion to pay the home a visit.

A unique program for character development has been set up by the superintendent and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Adams, and the home is being pointed out as a shining example by the state department of welfare of what can be accomplished in such an institution.

The teaching of the finer arts of homemaking, gardening, food preparation and preservation, animal husbandry, agriculture, and an out-of-the-ordinary recreational program are being put into practice.

A 30-minute sound color film is being produced of the home's activities. The movie will be shown throughout the state to all who are interested in the training of boys and girls for future sound citizenship.

Unique In State

Thought to be the only one of its kind in the state as the children's home glee club which was organized a year ago this month. The club is composed of 30 boys and girls ranging in age from eight to seventeen years. It is directed by Superintendent Adams, and the piano accompanist is Mrs. Charles Hinckley, who also composed the theme song, "Let a Little Sunshine In." Many appearances of the group have been made in Crawford, Marion and Morrow counties as well as on radio programs in this district. Weekly music lessons are made available to those boys and girls at the home showing special interest and aptitude for instrumental music. Every effort is made for further education or training beyond high school for children having special ability or talent.

The campus of the home is the scene of varied activity. One of the most popular sports enjoyed by the boys and girls is horseback riding. Five ponies and three saddle horses supplement the institution's recreational facilities. "Through this medium, boys and girls alike learn sportsmanship, patience, self-control and preserverence, as well as the fundamentals of equitation and horsemanship," Superintendnt Adams pointed out. The young riders, he said, have competed in many horse shows during the past two years and have earned numerous awards and trophies. Each of them has been presented with honorary membership in the Buckeye Rangers Riding Club, Inc.

Duties Assigned

To each child at the home are assigned definite responsibilities for daily routine tasks in accordance with his or her ability. Upon completion of their duties the children may be seen playing happily about the playground or romping with their popular mascots, "Bing" an English bulldog, and "Cheeta," a pet monkey who provides entertainment while riding "Tex" one of the favorite ponies.

Genuine companionship is shown by Mr. and Mrs. Adams, who ride with the youngsters. Fairness in dealing with the individual child is reflected in the affection which children display toward Mr. and Mrs. Adams in work as well as play.

Disciplinary problems are worked out at the home through application of principles of mental hygiene, Mr. Adams explained. The daily schedule for each child is so planned that he is kept happily at work or play. Discipline is managed by a merit system of self-government similar to that used by Father Flannagan of Boys' Town. The legislative body is composed of a mayor and six councilmen, elected semi-annually by the boys and girls. Purpose of the body is to assist the institutional staff with formulation of policies and to "try" offenders for infringement of regulations. A 15-year-old boy is the present mayor at the home, and his decisions are influenced by three girls and three boys who comprise the council.

The home has been approved by the State Department of welfare and the division of social administration of Ohio State university as an agency in which students may do field work. Two senior girls of Ohio State university recently completed nine weeks of educational work in childrens' services, at the home.

Under Welfare Board

The Children's Home is one phase of the work of the Crawford county child welfare board comprised of Arthur Manzer of Galion, president, Elmer Krauter and E. C. Hartwell of Bucyrus, Mrs. J. Proctor High of New Washington and Mrs. Lee Scanlon of Crestline.

Five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Adams were appointed by the board of trustees. Superintendent Adams is a graduate of Ohio Northern university and is a former teacher and principal.

Fifty-five children are now cared for at the home, a large brick building located on the west side of Galion. The building was formerly a brewery.

CIO KNIFE OUT FOR SOLONS

Ohio Unit Maps Campaign To Defeat Van Aken, Taft-Hartley Backers.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUE, O., June 30—The CIO stood committed today to a bitter eye-for-an-eye ballot box fight next fall in retaliation for national and Ohio labor regulatory measures.

Jack Kroll, national CIO-political action committee director and Ohio CIO council president, mapped out to a mass protest meeting yesterday a block-by-block attack against proponents of the Van Aken bill in Ohio and the Taft-Hartley bill passed by congress.

Declaring labor had been betrayed, Kroll told the CIO protestants:

"The time is now. We need 50,000 CIO volunteers to work in their own blocks to get voters to the ballot box. We've got debts to pay and don't forget it."

Speaker after speaker stressed the union's intention of defeating for re-election men who voted for the Van Aken, Taft-Hartley and other similar measures.

"Last Day" Predicted

William Lavelle of Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO council, commented today was the last day of the legislature and added:

"No matter if Governor Herbert vetoes this shameful Van Aken thing, a lot of legislators better enjoy tomorrow because it will be their last day."

Kroll said: "We are going to vote those gentlemen back into oblivion."

The PAC chief asserted the current battle against labor regulation was "this generation's fight" to retain their freedoms.

"Our unions can't live and flourish under the Van Aken bill," he said. "Oh, we may exist, but we'll wither on the vine.

"Your union is in danger, your security is in danger, the heritage of your children is in danger."

Mass Plans Mapped

Kroll's program called for a mass registration campaign, establishment and strengthening of PAC in local unions and shops with enrollment of 50,000 volunteers in Ohio, money contributions, dissemination of voting records and careful selection of "liberal and qualified" candidates.

The audience estimated officially at 2,300 persons, voted two resolutions — one urging Gov. Thomas J. Herbert to veto the Van Aken bill, a second averring the union's intention of continuing political actions.

Speakers included Jacob Clayman of Columbus, Ohio CIO counsel; Paul Miley of Cleveland, regional director of the United Automobile Workers; Lem Markland of Dayton, president of the District 7 Council of United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers; I. W. Abel of Canton, director of District 27, United Steelworkers; Dr. A. L. Lewis of Akron, educational director of the United Rubber Workers, and Henry Selbert of Cincinnati, of the joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

BRITAIN TO FURTHER CURTAIL IMPORTS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 30—The chancellor of the exchequer, Hugh Dalton, announced today that Britain would cut imports of tobacco, gasoline and newsprint during the year beginning tomorrow to conserve her shrinking dollar supply.

In addition, Dalton told the house of commons, he would ask parliament for authority to put an import duty on motion pictures, if necessary, to economize in foreign exchange.

Dalton said a severe shortage of dollars was developing "in almost all parts of the world."

"In particular," he added, "our own line of credit under the Anglo-American loan agreement is being drawn upon much more rapidly than we expected. It is our clear duty to take further steps to close the gap between our necessary imports and our exports."

Congress Investigates All — Including Joy-Riding Blonds

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30—Joy-riding blonds, dirty ducks and [illegible] kinds of permanent waves [illegible] with and without feet) are being investigated by our government.

So is bubble-gum, Hollywood, and the price of potatoes. The boys are scouring the drag-nets with their fine-tooth combs. They're even investigating each other. Gets complicated, too, when the federal hawkshaw shadows another government gumshoe on the trail of somebody else.

Take those blonds, who may or may not be imaginary. Seems the investigators of the war assests administration must fly around the country in government airplanes investigating skulduggery. Some of them have been charged with taking along their favorite cuties to help pass the long, dull hours aloft. The investigators of Rep. Ross Rizley, Okla., chairman of the surplus properties subcommittee, are surveying the situation.

The dirty ducks are different. These careless birds swim in any old water up north, then they fly down to the Jersey sea shore and waddle across the sand, polluting same. This sickens the clams, which can't fight back.

Tough On Minks

Congress is investigating. Another committee is pondering the case of the frightened mink. The army's daredevil pilots have been buzzing the fur farms of Minnesota, scaring the inmates. This causes them to fight, ruining their pelts. It has got to stop.

Bubble-gum, I am happy to report, has been given what we probers call a clean bill of health. The food and drug administration had its stenographers spend a week chewing same in the interests of science. Nothing happened to them, except tired jaws.

The house agriculture committee is in the midst of frying an assortment of potato experts for letting spuds rot by the thousands of tons. Another committee is oiling up for a search into the whys of west coast oil shipments to Russia. The senate's investigating the Arabian oil deals, a subject so complicated few humans can understand all its ramifications.

Poor Hollywood. The house un-American committee has ordered a number of its stars, writers and producers back here to see if they are Communists. The justice department still is inquiring into whether Hollywood is a trust to be busted, while the house district committee in investigating charges that "feelthy" movies have been shown to innocent Washingtonians.

Other investigations involve sugar, the cost of meat, the threat of a depression, taxes (including the possibility of same on pockets in pants), the starlings on Pennsylvania avenue, flood control and harbor projects all over, the Tucker auto factory at Chicago, and the chances of installing a movie machine in the senate caucus room without also removing the crystal chandeliers.

The Hon. Katherine St. George, Republican gentlewoman from Tuxedo Park, N. Y., has investigated congress, with pleasing results.

"It is the fashion to picture congress in the person of a rather stout old hayseed unshaven and gray, with the expression on his face of an old sheep-dog being led to the slaughter," the Hon. Mrs. St. G., said. Her inquiry proved this to be a canard; her fellow lawmakers are keen-eyed, alert young men.

And that brings us to the Waves. The navy said it needs 11,000 permanent Waves, the kind that wear blue skirts and walk. Congress is investigating. The federal trade commission is investigating the other variety of permanent waves; it thinks maybe some of the advertisers of the all-time curl have gone too far.

ONE-MAN ENCAMPMENT. The country's oldest Civil war veteran, James A. Hard, 105, welcomes young members of a figure skating summer school to his one-man State G. A. R. encampment at Lake Placid, N. Y. The state's only other surviving G. A. R. member, Robert Rownd, 102, of Ripley, N. Y., was forbidden by his physician to leave his home town.

Possibility of "Bootlegging" Seen Under New Labor Law

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30 — Under the new labor law some unions and employers probably will do "bootlegging" to keep up good relations.

That's what's being predicted here by some people close to the problems of union and employers.

For example:

A closed shop is outlawed by the new law. A closed shop is where everyone belongs to the union and only union men can be hired.

A boss and union no longer can agree to that in writing. But they may practice closed shop methods secretly.

They're violating the law but it might be hard to prove.

Here's an illustration:

Six years ago, amid a lot of bitterness on both sides, a union moved in on Employer Brown's plant and organized his workers.

Since then Brown has had to deal with the union, bargaining with it about wages, working conditions, vacations and so on.

For the first couple of years it was tough going while the big problems between Brown and the union were being straightened out.

Then things settled down in Brown's plant. He and the union both felt that one of the reasons for peace was that he agreed to a closed shop.

So, under the closed shop contract, for years now Brown has been hiring none but union men.

But now the new law says Brown can't permit a closed shop any more—or at least after his present contract runs out.

Which means: It will be illegal for Brown and the union to agree that Brown can hire only union men.

But, suppose, following the law, he starts hiring non-union men in his highly unionized shop.

Will that cause new bitterness, new trouble, maybe work stoppages at a time when Brown is anxious to make money by turning out all the goods he can?

Possible Course

If he thinks so, then this may happen: He and the union won't agree in writing that they have a closed shop in his place.

But, by secret understanding, Brown and the union agree that he will hire only union men.

A non-union man, turned down by Brown, could complain about it to the national labor board relations board which would have to investigate.

But that's where proving Brown and the union had a closed shop conspiracy would come in. It might not be easy.

This doesn't mean that all employers would enter such an arrangement with a union.

Some who have disliked the union in their plant undoubtedly will use every means the new law gives them for weakening the tight grip of the union.

Where did you get that hat?

WE'RE WILLING TO BET it's the latest creation from New York. And that lovely furniture—probably that came from Jamestown.

Come to think of it, almost everything in your house comes to you from distant points. Food from far-away farms, groves and canneries, household appliances from far-off industrial centers—many of the things needed for good living traveled hundreds of miles to you.

Bringing folks the products they need—keeping America prosperous by low-cost transportation—has been the job of your railroads. Doing this job efficiently depends on the railroads' ability to provide fast transportation, new equipment and improved facilities. But the railroads are faced with these problems:

Since 1939 payrolls are up more than 85%
Costs of supplies and materials up 46%
Freight rate increases average only 17%

And yet the cost of railroad service to you is less today than it was 25 years ago.

As a result, railroads are earning only a fraction over 3% on their net investment. Most people agree that any business should earn at least 6%. It is an American way of life—offering enterprise. Your railroads need the opportunity to earn that 6% to provide you with modern and improved service.

Boxing's Dumping Ground

MUCH in the news has been the investigation into the death of Jimmy Doyle, young boxer who was injured fatally in his championship match at Cleveland with Ray Robinson. As a result of a head injury suffered in March, 1946, in another Cleveland bout, Doyle wasn't allowed to box in California, his home state, yet he could come back to Cleveland for another contest.

Ohio is known throughout the boxing profession (sport is hardly the word) as a dumping ground for misfits. A boxer who is barred in Pennsylvania because constant battering has affected his eyesight has fought in Cleveland, Akron, Toledo and Columbus. Many a has-been and never-was who can't get bouts elsewhere comes to Ohio to pick up a few fast dollars.

Ohio's control by local autonomous commissions instead of a state boxing board places decisions as to physical fitness in the hands of doctors appointed by local boards—and in some cases by the promoter running the show. One of the model systems is that of California. Willie Ritchie, a former topnotch boxer and a conscientious administrator of a strict state code, rules the game with an iron hand. Lacking such a setup, Ohio at least should have a law banning the appearance of boxers banned for physical reasons in other states.

Boo!

SPOKESMEN for union leaders threatening to go into civil revolt unless congress reverses its decision on the labor-management act are hearing down heavily on what they claim is the act's unconstitutionality. To hear them tell it, there can be no doubt about this.

In order to back up their arguments they are picking out details of the new law and holding them up as prime examples of unconstitutionality. Apparently they have looked into the supreme court's mind and seen all. This can turn out to be an extremely tricky thing, as the union spokesmen well know.

The unconstitutionality of a law cannot be determined until a case involving the law has reached the supreme court. Labor lawyers charging that the labor-management act is unconstitutional know this. They also know that only the most extreme kind of administration could produce a case that would hold water in a court test and that no one wants that kind of administration.

The labor lawyers, labor leaders and a Chief Executive of the United States who so far betrayed his trust as to use public employes to undermine a law before it went on the statute books are in danger of having to eat a million unpalatable words. In their hysteria and hate, they have said things about the new law with no bearing on either the facts or probabilities—as the public eventually will discover.

There may be a finding of unconstitutionality against the labor-management act. As far as that's concerned, there still might be a finding of unconstitutionality against the national industrial relations (Wagner) act. Neither is likely. Labor lawyers and their clients pretending that the finding already has been made should find something better to do with their time.

It's Only Money

DON'T be scared by the year-end arithmetic of the treasury department. The actual figures aren't available as this is written, but all they represent is money—your money.

You can look at the accounting for the fiscal year from July 1, 1946, to July 1, 1947, two ways, both dependable. One way is to think of the government as a company reporting to its stockholders. The other is to think of the government as a family holding a financial post-mortem.

Either way, the same thing is obvious—that the only really important thing is the confidence of the individuals concerned. A government is like a bank; it can't operate without confidence in its solvency. As long as the American people believe their government can pay out, the government won't have to.

Therefore, the important thing about this year's federal arithmetic is an excess of income over outgo, the first time in 16 years. Deficit financing has stopped. There is even a surplus, a genuine one, not the bookkeeping surplus that was applied to debt reduction last year when the books were closed.

The United States never will be out of debt—it never will pay off all the certificates of indebtedness it has issued—but temporarily it has quit going further into debt. At present tax rates it can accumulate a surplus, and if genuine cutbacks could be made in domestic government it might make a substantial reduction in its debts. But it has been in debt continuously for 110 years and is likely to stay there for the next 110.

This has ceased to disturb the people. They are reconciled to the fact the debt jumped from less than 10 billion in 1931 to nearly 270 billion a year ago—its all-time high. Confidence is assured if the national budget can be kept in balance, with enough repayments of bonds to provide leeway for another financial emergency.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

U. S. Lacks Real Answer to Europe's Need for Help.

WASHINGTON, June 30—You hear all sorts of stories about the European need for aid. Yet you seldom hear the questions asked most by congressmen among themselves (do you ask them of yourself?). How much of the need is genuine? How much is sloth? Crafty politics? How much is due to Socialism? How much help is actually necessary?

There is no unequivocal answer. A careful sifting of objective inside reports (not made for publicity effect like the news reports), from Americans who have been over the scene, shows there is a mixed, peculiar, unparalleled condition down deep within the needs of Europe.

A Quaker head of a private American relief organization came back from a tour, saying ice had frozen 8 feet deep (yes 8) on the European canals last winter, and had ruined the August planting. Spring planting was delayed 6 weeks and then injured by rain. As he tells it, the food outlook is appalling and real.

But another report made by American agriculture experts to a national trade organization here says the bad weather was only one thing wrong. This report says Europe shows no enthusiasm for producing food for itself.

Many Excuses

Many excuses are validly encouraging the farmers abroad to do no more than necessary. The French farmer thinks the government has fixed the price of bread too low to warrant profitable production. Government regulations of distribution have clogged the normal commercial channels of all foodstuffs and prevented operation of a free market. But all you hear about is the popular rebellion against the dearth of bread such as led to the public burning of files in one under-prefecture.

Even in England, where you would expect to see agricultural energy displayed comparable to ours, the government threat of nationalization of farms has led to a subtle farmer resistance against planting. The farms may be taken over at any time the government is displeased with the farmer's management. Consequently all he does is barely enough to keep the government off his doorstep. British spring planting is not anywhere near what it should be, simply because of the dead hand of Socialism being laid on the privately owned farms and their profit-energy.

In Germany, the situation is worse. The people there have a peculiarly inverted political notion that they would like to rely on the victors for support rather than provide enthusism for their own recovery. They like to see Russia and the U. S. fighting. Of course, there are other factors such as farm machinery shortages, dearth of seeds, political influences, etc., etc., etc., all of which are being advertised, but the psychological aspect is as important as all other reasons combined.

Lowlands Better

The best spots in the European crop picture are in the lowlands. Belgium, Holland and Denmark have progressed furthest toward actual recovery, but their production is so small it has no general influence. Italy will have a crop, but its outlook corresponds to that of France—struggling, inadequate and bearing portentous political forebodings.

The Russian crop prospects cannot be made out clearly through the iron curtain, despite Will Clayton's optimistic prophesies. In truth, government management of the production situation there seems to make Russia look better than the rest of Europe from the planting angle. At least the Reds are actively self-conscious on the subject of food.

Now there is not a chance for us to make up these food deficiencies. We gave Britain $3.5 billion, about half of which she has used. We appropriated $300 million for central European relief. We are sending packages, clothing, and what not. But our crop prospects now indicate we will have exportable abundance only in wheat and rice.

These are the factors behind the Marshall program of attempting to promote European self-help. The inside facts show his plan is more necessary than the public blurbs about needs. Only along his line can progress toward recovery by Europe be genuinely made.

High School Driving Lessons

By JANE EADS

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Training "with its feet on the ground" is being urged for the nation's high school students so that young people "who will drive cars anyway" will operate them with safety to themselves and others.

It is estimated that a million high school students begin driving automobiles each year.

Records show that high-school-age drivers continue to pile up the worst accident toll of any age group. The American Automobile Association says that, based on miles driven per fatality, 16-year-old drivers as a group have a record more than nine times worse than drivers 45 to 50 years of age.

Whether we should teach driving in our high schools has been a much-debated question among parents and educators over the past several years.

The National Commission on Safety Education, backed by a subcommittee of school administrators, teachers and safety educators, favors such instruction.

It says that the money lost through motor vehicle accidents in one year would pay for teaching over 40,000,000 persons how to drive safely and efficiently.

Cost Reasonably Low

It adds that a complete one-semester course of instruction in driving, consisting of both classroom work and behind-the-wheel training, costs not more than $30 per student, and often much less. A good classroom course in driving can be provided by any high school at little added expense.

The minimum legal driving ages range from 14 years in some of our agricultural states, to 18 years in some of our industrial states.

The President's Highway Safety Conference in May, 1946, adopted a recommendation that secondary schools "provide driver education and training as an integral part of the curriculum for students approaching legal driving age, and other traffic safety activities for all age levels in the secondary school."

The commission reports that interest in driving instruction in high schools has been growing for more than a decade. Prewar high-school driving courses numbered several hundred. Many war-abolished programs are being reinstated. New courses are developing. In some states the legislatures have made the teaching of traffic safety mandatory in all grades.

Phamplet Issued

The commission has put out a phamplet, "Let's Teach Driving," intended "to guide the high schools in providing students with the best possible preparation for driving."

The suggested content of a high school driving instruction course is indicated in a 13-point outline contained in "Let's Teach Driving."

Suggested subjects include how to operate a vehicle; laws governing the use of motor vehicles and the penalties for non-observance; driver examining and licensing; traffic accidents, national, state, and local; characteristics of streets and highways; the motor vehicle as a mechanical device; human capabilities and limitations for driving and walking.

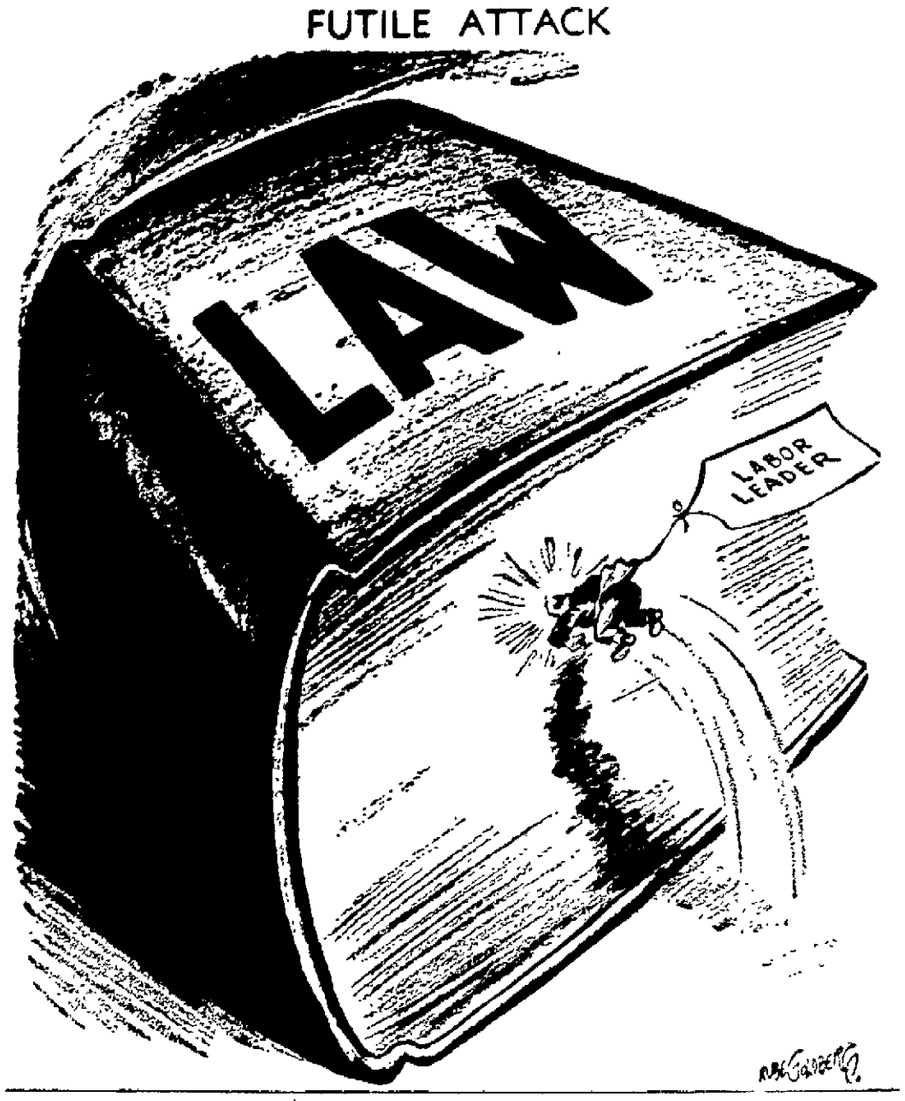
FUTILE ATTACK



The Kremlin Must Choose

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, June 30—Viacheslav M. Molotov, Georges Bidault and Ernest Bevin are meeting in the gilded clock-room of the Quai d'Orsay in what is certainly the most hurried, probably the most important, and possibly the last of the great post-war conferences between the Soviet Union and the West. The paramount questions which surround the conference boil down to these: What line will Molotov and his colleagues in the Kremlin take, and what will be the American response?

One American official neatly summed up the American attitude toward the Russian acceptance of the Bevin-Bidault invitation. "Well, you know," he remarked, "we're going through a minefield, and it's always rather uncomfortable when you see a big one slipping up on the port bow about one fathom deep." This gloomy view is based on the universal expectation, by no means confined to the Americans, that the Russians have joined the conference on the Marshall proposal only in order to sink it. For if the proposed joint European-American effort works, the Soviet Union will have lost its opportunity to dominate the entire European continent, and since the war ended a mass of evidence has accumulated indicating that the Soviets have no intention of losing that opportunity.

The most recent evidence to that effect has been supplied by the Soviet policy toward the United Nations' European economic commission, the only previous international attempt at European economic collaboration.

Painful

After much hesitation, and after almost tearful pleas by the Polish and Czechoslovak satellites, whose economies are largely dependent on western Europe, the Soviets finally consented to embrace the economic commission. The embrace has been the most painful kind of bear hug. Last month the Russians proposed a change in the voting system, which now operates by majority vote, to allow Russia, with her satellites, to veto any project. They also demand that the subsidiary organizations, dealing with coal, transport and so on, which are the real heart of the commission, be killed off. They have opposed consideration of the Germany economy, which is at the center of the European economic problem.

When the commission at last broke up, having accomplished almost precisely nothing, the Russians proposed that it not meet again for an indefinite period. Only the most determined insistence persuaded the Soviets to agree to another meeting on July 5. While all this was going on the unfortunate Czechs and Poles according to one observer, "looked wistfully on, wringing their hands."

Continued "Demands"

There is no reason to believe that the Russians have experienced a sudden change of heart. The attacks on the Marshall program continue in the Soviet press, faithfully reflected in the world Communist press. The Russians have repeatedly demanded "more information" on the proposal from the British foreign office, although they must know that at this stage no more information is available. They demanded an open meeting, with the intention, in the opinion of most observers, of publicly portraying the whole program as empty and without substance.

Meanwhile, they are using their vast propaganda mechanism to spread the conviction in Europe that the world food shortage is a "myth" maintained by greedy American capitalists "for profiteering purposes."

Finally, the Soviets have a last ace up their sleeves—a demand for a large share of any American appropriation, on the basis of Russian war devastation. The Russian intelligence service is sufficiently competent to report that the Eightieth congress would commit mass harikiri rather than appropriate a cent to the Soviet Union.

Grounds for Hope

In the face of all this, there are still solid grounds for hoping that the Marshall Doctrine will yet save Europe and incidentally the United States. For Secretary Marshall has taken a calculated risk, and in so doing has for the first time wrested the political intiative from the Soviet Union.

First, Ernest Bevin has made it clear that any attempt to sabotage the European response to the Marshall proposal will be mercilessly exposed to the gaze of an angry Europe—and Communists dislike hunger as much as other Europeans. Second, the economic pull of the eastern European countries, especially Poland and Czechoslovakia, toward western Europe will be exceedingly difficult for the Soviets to resist.

Finally, the Soviet ace can be trumped. The fact is that unlike other European countries, the Soviet Union has no dollar shortage. Soviet gold production is one of Russia's most closely guarded secrets, but it is believed that production is in the neighborhood of 200 million a year, and that the Russians have a gold reserve of as much as two billion. Moreover, in their closed continental economy, the Russians face no export-import problem. Indeed, during the last year they had a favorable dollar balance in cash trade of nearly 30 million dollars, and cashed another 33 million dollars worth of gold in the United States. And if the Soviet Union were to demand a big slice of the American appropriation, it too would of course be obliged, like other European countries, to produce a detailed balance sheet.

The Marshall proposal has thus at last brought the Soviet rulers face to face with the facts. Either the Russians can choose to sabotage the reconstruction effort, and thus create the very western European bloc which they fear. Or they can choose eventually to change their policy and help to create a healthy Europe, on which the Soviet economic structure itself at length depends. It is a vital choice which faces the men in the Kremlin.

Hip-Pocket Editions

122,000,000 Books Reprinted for Services.

WHEN Armed Service Editions discontinues operations in October, a publishing venture which has produced more than 122,000,000 books will suspend activities.

Anyone who was in the armed forces had plenty of opportunities to come by the paper-backed, hip-pocket-sized reprints, which ranged all the way from Zane Grey and H. Allen Smith to Emerson and "The Iliad."

The little books were with the men wherever they went and doubtless whetted the literary appetites of many. They crossed the Channel with the landing forces on D-Day and they were dropped by parachute to isolated outposts. Whenever a troop transport came into port a non-com hustled to the nearest special service office to pick up the latest batch to come off the press.

The books cost the taxpayers six cents apiece, authors and publishers each taking a one-cent royalty. The printing problem was solved by utilizing the presses of some of the digest magazines which were busy only a few days a month. The presses ran off two books at a time, the digest page being twice the size of the hip-pocket book page. Thus one-half the digest page might contain part of a gory murder yarn while the other half might be something by Thomas Wolfe. After coming off the presses, the pages were halved and bound in their respective books.

The press capacity was 512 pages, so Kathleen Winsor had to cut four love affairs out of "Forever Amber" to trim the novel down to size. Only selections approved by both army and navy were printed. Despite the novel's rater unfavorable picture of it, the army wanted "A Bell for Adano," but the navy, presumably because one of the characters is a stuffy naval officer, turned thumbs down.

The books were made to be read, not treasured, and usually they were worn out after a week or two. The idea was to read them and pass them along.

A captain on Saipan wrote: "Whoever made them hip-pocket size showed a stroke of genius. I can't say any current copy is next to my heart, but it is treasured."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Will Be "Doctor Eisenhower" Now

Columbia is now not only the gem of the ocean and the pride of New York, but the envy of American universities. Yale, Harvard and Princeton are reported after Nimitz, Bradley and MacArthur.

* * *

Who ever dreamt that when General Eisenhower landed in Normandy he would not only take the Rhine and Berlin but the Hudson and Morningside Heights?

* * *

It only could happen here. We thought we were saving "Ike" for the next war and it turns out we were building him up to put more fight into the Columbia football team.

* * *

Say what you will about Columbia, it knows advertising values. With a great war hero, and one of the outstanding personalities of our time as its President, the university is now on the tongues of people everywhere who never heard of the Big Three.

* * *

And the advertising won't do "Ike" any harm. Our own guess is that the job will put him in a terrific spot for further acclaim and popularity, and that it may all turn out to be the triple play of the era: Army to Columbia to the White House.

* * *

The general has made a reputation as an invincible battler, but wait until he has to take the crowd in that 116th Street subway in a rush hour.

* * *

What an influence the General as head of Columbia will have on the student body! From now on they know the worst that can happen to them when they flunk is to get K.P. duty.

* * *

Some of those kids up there are already demanding Notre Dame on the football schedule in 1948. They may not have the material but they can count on aerial support.

* * *

Still it is going to seem strange for ex-GI's to think of "Ike" as "Doctor" Eisenhower. It won't sound right in view of the fact he prescribed all those canned eggs.

* * *

We hear the influence is already making itself felt. There are two new secret societies. Lotta Kay Pee and Phi Beta Amphibious.

* * *

Not only that, but we heard a young man boasting yesterday that he could get into Columbia without exams because his feet were okay by all army standards.

* * *

Then there is the boy who wants to know if his army blanket entitles him to any entering credits.

* * *

We don't know what Columbia is paying the general, but there is nothing to the rumor he was obtained in a swap for Lou Little and Prof. Erskine.

* * *

Anyhow, good luck, Professor Ike. You will do well as a college president if you avoid the lunches at those neighborhood drug stores.

1948 Song for the General

You're out of the service now,
You're out of the service now;
From war as a features
It's "Apples for teacher"—
You're out of the service now.

We know a boy who, planning to enter Columbia next year, says he is going to specialhead his education, take his degree by frontal attack, consolidate his learning and strive for cum laude by a pincers movement.

Pravda says that America is on the brink of ruin....an awful depression looms dead ahead ... the country is jittery. ..there is panic on all sides . .we are bound for the abyss. You can imagine the denunciations we will get if we disappoint the writer.

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: My, ain't nature wonderful! But each of us must learn why for himself.

I will tell you only this much. I went for a drive. All told, I stopped at eight places. Sam Reinholder and his boy were putting a new roof on the west side of their barn. A freak gust of wind a few days ago raked off a couple hundred shingles. I didn't have a very good visit with them because I wouldn't go up on the ladder where they could hear me and Sam apologized for not coming down—said the job had to be finished today. His boy was a Mustang pilot in the war and is going to make a career of farming. Nice boy.

Next stop was the Johnson's. They'd had trouble. Gert Johnson stepped on a shovel on her way to the chicken house a couple weeks ago and the thing flopped over and cut her leg. It didn't look serious, but the next morning infection had started and for a week the doctor was there three times a day. Wanted her to go to the county hospital, but she made them set up her bed in the living room where she could see out to the kitchen and tell Bob and his hired man how to stave off starvation.

At the Cooks, I took aboard some mince pie and we talked about farm prices. Denny Cook was holding forth on the notion everybody rides on the gravy train until the farmers get aboard, then all the politicians, labor leaders and city-bred economists sniff, "Who told those guys they had a right to pay off their mortgages?" Denny thinks what this country needs is a farmers' strike. Maybe he's right. Mrs. Cook is going to have her fourth baby in a couple more months. The first three are only about two years apart.

The main item of interest at the Warings was a litter of springer spaniel pups, black and whites. For $40 I'd have bought one for your kids. That's what they get for them. Maybe I should go into the dog business. There were 10 pups in that litter and $40 was bottom price. The higher mathematics of the proposition are interesting. Pop Waring was 65 last week. His old lady is sneaking up on 70. To hear them talk you'd think they were on the sunny side of 40—planning ahead and busting with energy.

I stayed for supper at the Spencers—Lynn Spencer, not Roy. Afterward, I stopped to see Roy and his family, too. All the Spencers are great people. Lynn and his wife have two girls in the state university. The Roy Spencers, you will remember, had a boy killed in Normandy. He was with a bunch of soldiers who stepped on a land mine. They moved on to a smaller place last fall, figuring there was no use knocking themselves out any more. It's the old Magruder farm, west of the consolidated school. The Magruders sold two chunks of it before they finally gave up and moved into town. There's only 70 acres left.

On the way back here I stopped to talk with Chet McAllister, who sent you his regards—said to remind you of the time you and he rode on the ferris wheel at the fair—and Jim Heisler. Just happened to see them outside and drove in to say hello. Didn't even get out of the car either place.

I can't remember when I've enjoyed a day so much. All of us should see more of our friends. They're the most precious things we have.

New Chemical Kills Quackgrass, Lets Other Plants Grow

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, June 30—Department of agriculture plant researchers say they have a new and promising lead towards control of quackgrass"—described as one of the most widely distributed and destructive weed in the northern United States."

They report "favorable results" with a man-made chemical called "IPC" (short for isopropyl-n-phenyl carbamate), which has a different action from the now well-known "2-4-D." The latter substance kills broad-leaved pests such as dandelions, ragweed and poison ivy, but is ineffective against narrow-leaved grasses. Hence, it's okay to use 2,4-D on your lawn.

In contrast, IPC," in limited experiments, has been shown to be bad news for narrow-leaved "quackgrass"—or "witchgrass" as New Englanders call it.

Thus, while "IPC" would be detrimental to your lawn, which is made up of narrow-leaved grass, it offers promise, the researchers say, for controlling grass-like weeds which bedevil cultivated ground.

Quackgrass is a colossal pain in the neck for farmers, particularly in potato patches, and it also thrives where corn, sugar beets and other crops are grown. Tests so far indicate that some broad-leaved plants, including sugar beets, are not injured by "IPC," but the researchers warn that not enough is known about it to make general statements regarding its effect on useful plants. It is definitely known, however, that it kills some kinds of cereals, so it should not be used where cereals are being grown.

The substance can be purchased as a fine powder from some chemical houses, the researchers said, adding that the product may soon be found in packages under special trade names.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Healthy Teeth

Smiles of the movie stars should have convinced the teen-aged crowd that beautiful, well-cared-for teeth are a real asset. Yet with all of this, they seem not to realize that the teeth have no more power to withstand constant abuse than any other part of the body. In fact, according to Dr. Barnard B. Alter of Bronxville, New York, it is necessary to follow certain rules if the teeth are to be kept strong and free from decay.

Now, let's see which of these rules our boys and girls are most likely to break and what happens when they do.

Many youngsters get into the habit of using their teeth to do things for which they were not made. For example, they use the teeth to open a bobby pin, open a bottle, crack nuts, chew on pencils, or bite sewing thread.

These things hurt the teeth in two ways. First, pieces of enamel are chipped off, making the teeth uneven. Second, these chipped-off spaces leave the teeth open to decay because the germs can get into the tooth and produce infection.

It seems generally agreed that an excess of sweets is bad for the teeth: These sweets seem to set up conditions in the mouth which favor the growth of certain types of germs which are acid-producing. It has been shown definitely that in such cases tooth decay is more likely to occur. Furthermore, the excess sweets interfere with the diet so that other necessary foods are not taken. Thus, not only is tooth decay more likely to occur, but the general health also may be affected.

If a tooth is lost, it should be replaced without delay. If this is not done, the teeth shift out of their proper position. This not only ruins the shape of the jaw and the face but also places unusual pressure on the teeth causing them to become loosened and pockets form around the teeth into which the germs gain entrance, and eventually many of the teeth are lost. If the teeth are not in good position, there is an improper bite, and the teeth should be straightened by the use of proper braces. Of course, the dentist must be consulted concerning these matters, and he will advise as to when the teeth-straightening process should be started.

It is important that the diet is kept well-balanced, containing all of the necessary vitamins, minerals, and proteins; the latter from such foods as milk, meat, eggs and whole-grain cereals.

Of course all persons should make regular visits to the dentist at least twice a year so that any decay in the teeth may be discovered and properly cared for.

A GOWN of heavy white bridal satin was worn by Miss Marilyn LaVerne Sletvold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Sletvold of 722 Mt. Vernon avenue, when she became the bride of Robert Eugene Pocock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Pocock of 514 Vernon Heights boulevard, Saturday afternoon in the Emanuel Lutheran church. Preceding her to the altar were her sister, Mrs. Curtis Guy Howard of Columbus, as matron of honor, Miss Marguerite Hegg of Waverly, Ia., Mrs. Marion P. Wiant and Mrs. Lawrence H. Jones of Marion, as bridesmaids, the flower girl, Linda Lou Klatt of Marion, and the ring bearer, Kenneth Klatt of Marion.

Mr. Sletvold escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her gown, fashioned with a basque with a high neckline, had a yoke of nylon marquisette which was outlined with a design of seed pearls. The long full sleeves were accented with full shirring from the elbow to the wrist and ended in points over the hands. The full skirt, which had a drop waistline, was styled with a large bustle in the back which fell into a long train. Her finger-tip length veil of bridal net was held in place with a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of white delphinium and lilies of the valley centered with a gladiola in a peach-pink shade.

Mrs. Howard, the matron of honor, wore a gown of American Beauty rose net over silk styled with a fitted bodice and full skirt gathered at the waist. The bodice of net over silk ended in a low sweetheart neckline with sheer net extending above to form a round neck at the throatline and making the cap sleeves. Straps of net over silk crossed the shoulders from back to front, and net ruffling accented the yoke and outlined the cap sleeves. She wore matching mitts and her headdress was a ruffle halo in the same shade. She carried a shower bouquet of light blue delphinium.

The bridesmaids were costumed in gowns of a light blue shade fashioned like that of the matron of honor, with the exception that a wide strap formed the cap sleeve which was edged with tiny ruffling. Their headdresses were ruffle halos of light blue net and they carried shower bouquets of roses in an American Beauty shade.

The flower girl's frock was of white dotted Swiss with blue dots and she scattered rose petals from a blue basket. The ring bearer was in a white suit.

To light the candles, Miss Anita Porter of Marion wore a white gown, and Miss Phyllis Corbin, also of Marion, was attired in a blue dress. Each wore a wristlet of rosebuds.

Roger Pocock of Marion, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and ushers were Lawrence H. Jones, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, George Brown, Robert Miller and Fred Ziesenheim of Marion.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sletvold was attired in a floor-length gown of aqua silk crepe. The bodice was styled with cap sleeves, and the skirt had a draped front. She wore aqua gloves, and her headdress was of silk crepe and aqua maline accented with tiny white bows. Her corsage was of American Beauty rosebuds. Mrs. Pocock wore a gray summer sheer floor-length gown, the bodice of which was accented with short bended sleeves. She wore matching lace gloves and a headdress of a flower arrangement. Her flowers were a corsage of baby orchids in a tan shade.

Open church was observed for the single ring ceremony read at 4:30 o'clock by Rev. Rennix Van Scoy of Crestline, pastor of the Lutheran church there.

The altar was banked with greenery and foliage to form a background for the four seven-branch candelabra which were arranged so that they pointed toward the altar. The floor at the altar was completely covered with white, and at either side of the high altars was a large cathedral vase of white gladioli and white lilies. The kneeling bench was also in white. The pews in the center aisle were lighted with candles in tall pedestals surrounded by greenery and plumosa and tied with large white satin bows.

Mrs. William Ackerman Jr. played a program of organ music and Mrs. George Griffiths sang. The organ numbers included "At Dawning," Cadman, "In My Garden," Firestone, "Intermezzo," Provost, "Oh Perfect Love," Barnby, "Liebestraum," Liszt, "Estrellita," Ponce, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," Bach, "Wedding Bells," Truette, and the traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony she played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," Herbert. Mrs. Griffiths sang "Through the Years," Youmans, and "I Love You Truly," Bond. At the close of the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 150 guests in the church social rooms.

The receiving line was formed before a fireplace banked with greenery and small potted flowers in American Beauty and light blue shades. A table at one end of the room was centered with a bouquet of white iris and lighted candles in crystal holders. The four tiered wedding cake atop which was a miniature bride and bridegroom was surrounded by daisies and greenery. The table holding the punch bowl was also decorated with bouquets of daisies and greenery. Baskets of summer flowers were placed throughout the rooms.

Mrs. U. A. Nystrom served as general hostess for the reception. The cake was cut by Mrs. L. G. Jones, assisted by Mrs. Karl Knirk. Mrs. George Turner, poured, and serving were Miss Marilyn Beal, Miss Ruth Ann Abel, Miss Mary Jane Llewellyn, Miss Janis Jones, Miss Jean Witt, Mrs. Albert Witt and Mrs. Walter Dorsey.

Later the couple left on a honeymoon through the northern part of the country. For traveling Mrs. Pocock chose a pink linen suit styled with a long jacket which was flared below the waist. With this she combined navy blue accessories and she wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

After July 10 the couple will be at home at 631 Sixth street in Lafayette, Ind.

Mrs. Pocock was graduated from Harding High school and Miami university and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. The last two years she was employed as a teacher in the Marion schools. Mr. Pocock, also a graduate of Harding High school, served three years in the U. S. Army with part of that time in Europe, and is now enrolled as a student at Purdue university. His fraternity is Beta Theta Pi.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Walthour of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Jones Jr. and son, Robert, of Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Jones of Youngstown and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Williams of Columbus.

For the rehearsal dinner, given Friday night at Hotel Harding, the tables were centered with flowers in American Beauty and blue shades. The bride's gifts to her attendants were earrings, and the bridegroom gave his best man and ushers tie clasps.

Mr. Pocock's bachelor party was given at the Marion Country club by his brother, Roger, and his brother-in-law, Lawrence Jones.

As a pre-nuptial courtesy, Mrs. Marion P. Wiant and Mrs. Alfred LaPierre entertained with a crystal shower for the pleasure of Miss Sletvold Thursday evening at the latter's home on East Center street. She found her gifts by taking notes from a crystal bowl which contained directions. Refreshments were served from a table centered with a large crystal globe representing a "fortune teller's globe," beneath which was a bride and bridegroom. Hung from above and attached to the bride and bridegroom with streamers was a sign reading, "The Crystal Tells." Bouquets of American Beauty roses and lighted blue tapers completed the decorations. The evening was spent in playing bridge with honors going to Mrs. Lawrence Jones and Mrs. Harold Fralich.

Other parties honoring Miss Sletvold included a luncheon and kitchen shower given June 11 by Mrs. George Turner of 381 Hane avenue, a 1 o'clock luncheon June 18 given by Mrs. David Pollak at the Marion Country club, a 7 o'clock dinner June 20 at the Country club given by Mrs. Frank McNeal and Mrs. Marr McNeal, and a tea June 20 given by Mrs. U. A. Nystrom at her home at 411 Hane avenue.

MRS. ROBERT E. POCOCK

Miss Marian Roberts was complimented with a personal shower when Mrs. Helen Gruber entertained at the home of Mrs. Henry Roberts of 756 Henry street. Miss Roberts, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roberts, will become the bride of August R. Bender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bender of 224 Elm street in an open church ceremony Sunday, July 6. The service will be read in Emanuel Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock.

A program and social hour was held by the Pleasant Farm Women's club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emerson Dietsch of south of Marion. Mrs. Harry Hoch conducted the devotions and Mrs. Byron Rice offered prayer. Mrs. L. E. Mautz conducted a quiz program and read two poems, "The Friendly Way" and "A Bondless Life." Mrs. Arden Groll was in charge of a contest won by Mrs. Frank Eberl. A guessing box was won by Mrs. Lowell Mitton. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Arden Groll. Guests included Mrs. J. Dietsch, Mrs. Mitton, Patricia and Carolyn Moon and Janet Mitton. A picnic was planned with Mrs. Frank Eberl as hostess.

Bridge was played when members of the D-8 club met recently with Mrs. D. J. Sansotta of Pennsylvania avenue. Awards went to Mrs. William Schott, first, Mrs. Karl Barkley, second and Mrs. James Brown Jr., consolation. Lunch was served from a long table decorated with floral arrangements of red and white roses.

Mrs. H. E. Webster of 342 South Vine street was hostess when the Literature Study club met recently for a picnic supper marking the close of the present season. Club programs for the coming season were distributed. Arrangements were made by the social committee which included Mrs. G. F. Rinker, chairman, Mrs. Ralph Burton, Mrs. John Pasters, Mrs. Wayne Jenkins and Mrs. Eldred Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Cook of 131 Uhler avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wilson of near LaRue and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holliday of 256 South Main street, spent Friday and Saturday in Canton. Saturday evening they attended the wedding there of Miss Shirley Williams of Canton and Eugene Bradley of Mansfield. Mr. Cook was host for Mr. Bradley's bachelor party Friday evening at the Onesta hotel in Canton. The bridegroom is a special agent of the Commonwealth Life Insurance Co. of which Mr. Cook is territorial manager.

Morrow County Man Weds Michigan Girl

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Helen Marie Audress of Iron Mountain, Mich., and Raymond Kidwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kidwell of West Point, near Mt. Gilead. The wedding ceremony was read at the Fulton Methodist church Thursday at 8 p. m. by Rev. Dale Riggs of Marengo, in the presence of relatives. Preceding and during the ceremony, music was presented by Mrs. Russell Kidwell, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Calvin Kidwell, another sister-in-law, was the bride's attendant, while Russell Kidwell was his brother's best man.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white linen dress with which she wore white accessories, and her shoulder corsage was of red rosebuds. Her gift from the bridegroom was a diamond locket. The matron of honor wore a dress in an aqua shade with which she combined black accessories, and her shoulder corsage was of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Kidwell chose for the wedding of her son a black dress, and she wore black accessories and a corsage of carnations and cornflowers.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kidwell with 20 guests present. A wedding cake featured the refreshment table.

MISS EVELYN ELSA VESEY, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Vesey of Bowling Green, O., formerly of Marion, became the bride of Warren James Bastian, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bastian of West Columbia street in an open church ceremony Sunday afternoon in the First Methodist church at Bowling Green.

A half-hour program of nuptial music preceded the service with Miss Lorene Mathias presiding at the organ and Miss Charlotte Clark as soloist. Both are residents of Bowling Green.

The bride's father officiated for the ceremony which was held in the church sanctuary decorated with bouquets of white delphinium and lilies blended with a background of syringa, palms and huckleberry foliage. Three pairs of seven-branch candelabra completed the decorations.

The bride escorted to the altar by her brother, Wesley Vesey, wore a bridal gown styled with a formal bouffant skirt of white satin with an overskirt of white net. The top part of the gown was fashioned of white lace with a bateau neckline, long sleeves and a tunic effect flowing into a graceful train. Her headdress was a band of hand-made white satin petals. She carried a white prayer-book which was clasped with a white orchid and stephanotes bouquet.

Miss Margaret Vesey, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and was costumed in a gown of lemon yellow malo polo material styled like the bride's gown differing only by having short cap sleeves and a fish tail peplum. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and blue anchusa with blue streamers matching the head-dress and mitts. The bridesmaids, Miss Janet Percy, Mrs. Virginia Walker and Miss Margaret Manhart wore gowns of blue malo polo material fashioned with the cap sleeves and fish tail peplum and carried arm bouquets of pink bountiful roses, and delphinium tied with blue pink streamers. Key Man Under New Labor Law Is General Counsel for NLRB

(This is the last of six stories explaining major points in the new labor law.)

* * *

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—The key man under the new labor law is general counsel of the national labor relations board (NLRB).

Many unionists predict he'll be labor czar. Congressmen who wrote the law said they have no fear.

Under the Wagner act—the present labor law which the new law changes in many ways—the powers in labor-management affairs was the NLRB.

It was a three-man board which carried out the Wagner act. The old board had a general counsel. He was really a servant of the board.

The board, in labor disputes, acted as investigator, prosecutor, judge and jury, all in one.

That great power of the board was one of the reasons the Wagner act, passed in 1935, has received so much criticism all through the last 12 years.

Big Changes Made

But the new law makes big changes in the board and its powers.

The three-man board now becomes a five-man board, all members appointed by the President. But much of its power is taken away.

The new law provides for a general counsel, too.

Unlike the general counsel under the Wagner act, this one will have great power. He'll practically be independent of the NLRB.

He'll be NLRB's prosecuting arm. He can investigate charges of violations of the new law and issue complaints against unions and employers.

He'll decide whether to prosecute a union or employer before the board—which will sit as judge—and his decision is final. There's no appeal.

The fields in which he'll operate are pretty much wide open and uncharted.

The law itself makes hardly more than passing reference to the job of general counsel.

It will take time to decide just how much power he has—or how much he may feel entitled to assume.

Named by President

He'll have to be appointed by the President and then the senate will have to confirm him. His salary: $12,000 a year.

The expanded board itself from now on will be a labor relations court, instead of prosecutor, jury and judge.

But, because the law does so many things and dips into so many fields of labor-management relations, the board becomes a major government agency.

Because of the powers and responsibilities given the new NLRB, the overshadowed labor department shrinks to not much more than an agency for gathering statistics on things like wages, employment, and so on.

One of the most important parts of the government's big labor department was its conciliation service.

This service, made up of experts in labor-management relations, had the job of trying to help unions and employers settle disputes.

It couldn't compel them to settle anything. It could send in its experts to try to get both sides to reach agreements in their quarrels.

But the new law wipes out this conciliation service and, in its place, creates a new agency called the federal mediation and conciliation service.

Separate Agency

This new agency, whose job will be just the same as the conciliation service, is set up outside the labor department.

So Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, member of President Truman's cabinet and head of the labor department, is left with a skeleton department.

The new law says the new mediation and conciliation service is not to start working until Aug. 22—60 days after the law was passed June 23.

And the law says the new NLRB won't start working until Aug. 22, either. So the old board has to clean up its work before then.

The old board has on hand about 5,500 labor disputes still unsettled. At the rate the old NLRB has been going, it can't clean them up by Aug. 22.

The old board hopes that some of them will be dropped by unions and employers.

Board at Johnsville Hires Two Teachers

MT. GILEAD, June 30—Two additional teachers were hired when the Johnsville board of education met this week. Mrs. Ruth Carstarphen was hired to teach in the high school and Miss Ilia Jackson of Mt. Gilead was hired to teach in the grades.

Mrs. Carstarphen is a graduate of Ohio university and has had teaching experience in New York state. Miss Jackson graduated from Mt. Gilead high school in 1946 and is now attending Ashland college. She will receive a four-year cadet provisional certificate on completion of the equivalent of two years work.

Members of the board are considering presenting a bond issue to voters in their district at the November elections for the purpose of enlarging the present school facilities. Harlan Jones, school architect from Mansfield, has been hired and is expected to present plans at the next meeting of the board.

At the present time the shop building at the school is being converted for use as a grade school class room. The freshmen class next fall will have 41 members, and at the present time there are no rooms large enough to accommodate a class of that size.

County Superintendent F. E. Honnold described the present teaching condition in the county as good despite the drifting of many teachers to better paying jobs. He expects that under the provisions of the Daniels-Cramer bill Morrow county teachers will receive raises of from $300 to $600 yearly.

House Committee O.K.'s Bill To Cash GI Bonds

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30 — A house armed services subcommittee today approved legislation to permit holders of GI terminal leave bonds to cash them immediately.

The legislation will come before the full committee tomorrow and its approval is expected in time to permit house action early next week. Republican leaders have tagged the bill for passage.

There are approximately 9,000,000 bonds outstanding, with a face value estimated at $1,800,000,000.

The treasury has opposed the legislation on the ground it would add to inflationary pressures.

HERBERT APPOINTS OHIO HEALTH HEAD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—Senate confirmation of the appointment of Dr. John Donaldson Porterfield III of Columbus as state health director was expected today.

Dr. Porterfield was named successor to Dr. Roger Heering late last night by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

Dr. Heering resigned several weeks ago in protest over reduced departmental appropriations.

The 35-year-old physician currently is with the research branch of the U. S. department of health in Washington. He was chief of the venereal disease division of the Ohio department of health from mid 1945 until last January when he went to Washington.

The appointment, the governor said, will become effective immediately with senate confirmation. Dr. Porterfield attended Rush Medical college in Chicago, formerly his home. He also is a graduate of Notre Dame university. He has served with the U. S. health department for about 11 years and holds a rating of senior surgeon.

HOPE OF AGREEMENT ON EUROPE FADING

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 30—The possibility that Britain, France and Russia might agree upon common action on the Marshall aid-Europe program faded rapidly today as talks between the foreign ministers of the three nations entered what authoritative sources described as a "critical stage."

These informants predicted a showdown which may determine the fate of the conference when British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov meet in an attempt to reconcile their differences.

French sources said the foreign ministers were confronted with a virtual impasse and saw little hope of their reaching agreement.

The gulf between their views was emphasized yesterday when Russia, in a surprise announcement, declared her opposition to any "all embracing" economic program for Europe.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, smart graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

STORM

to electric lines in the northern and eastern parts of the county.

The rainfall flooded streets and basements at Bucyrus, where nearly two inches fell and at Upper Sandusky traffic on two highways was held up when trees were felled by the high winds. Wheat crops in some sections were reported damaged by the wind and rain. At Galion the lights were off in some sections of the city and a number of trees blown down.

Damage to power lines in the city was minor, the Ohio Public Service Co. reported today, but workmen were on duty until around 2 a. m. repairing damage in the rural sections where transformers were put out of commission by the lightning. Transformer fuses and sectional fuses were blown out, and Claridon, Caledonia, Kirkpatrick, Monnette and Wyandot communities were without power until the damage could be repaired.

200 Phones Out

Approximately 200 telephones, mostly in the city, were put out of service by the electrical storm and a few poles were blown down. These are being repaired today and it is expected service will be completely restored by Tuesday, a representative of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. said today.

Heaviest damage was done by the rain at Bucyrus where streets were flooded and approximately two-thirds of the basements in the city had water in them. In some sections lights were out a short time.

Wheat fields, where the grain is nearly matured, were flattened by the heavy rain in some parts of the district. Water, standing in many fields is expected to drain off in a short time, causing no damage.

Two Minor Fires Caused by Lightning

Two minor fires resulted from lightning striking during the storm last evening, firemen reported today.

The first call was at 6:31 p. m. to the Gene Bentz residence at 984 North State street when lightning struck the electric power line near the pole and followed the wiring into the house setting fire to a pair of curtains and woodwork in one of the rooms. Loss was estimated at approximately $25. Firemen from the East Mark street station and quad truck from Central responded.

The second alarm was at 7:55 p. m. when Edward Uncapher of 966 South Prospect street reported lightning struck a tree near his home and set it on fire. No loss resulted. Engine No. 1 from Central station responded.

Weekend Weather Spree Increases Midwest Damage

By The Associated Press

Strong winds, a devastating hailstorm and additional heavy rains in flood areas and elsewhere added heavily to the damage toll in the midwest over the weekend as the most expansive heat wave of the summer spread over virtually all the rest of the nation.

A tornado wrecked a six square block section of Hopewell, Va., Saturday. Ten persons suffered minor injuries. Otherwise, wind damage appeared to have centered in the upper midwestern states where gusts were measured as high as 80 miles an hour.

Storm Causes Damage At Upper Sandusky

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, June 30—A high wind and a severe electrical and rain storm which seemed to center its force along the north edge of the city, did considerable damage when it swept over the city from the west, about 6 p. m. Sunday. Trees were blown down, obstructing two highways, limbs were broken, wheat fields flattened and at the Upper Sandusky airport a training plane was damaged when it was overturned by a twisting current of air.

The plane, a Piper Cub, used for training, was tied down near the hangar and was overturned on its top. While it was seriously damaged it can be repaired, Fred McConnell, owner of the airport, said today.

A large tree, three feet in diameter, in front of the Koehler farm one mile north of here, was blown across state route 53 obstructing traffic as did another tree nearly as large, blown down at the Van Buren farm eight miles west of here on U. S. route 30-N. Sheriff B. H. Stansbery and his deputies detoured traffic and the highways were cleared by the state highway departments soon after the storm subsided.

The high winds flattened many fields of nearly-matured wheat throughout the community.

Ft. Hayes Gets Out of Army

Historic Veteran of 4 Wars Turned Over to Ohio National Guard.

By International News Service

FT. HAYES, COLUMBUS, O., June 30—Historic Fort Hayes received its "honorable discharge" from the U. S. Army today.

Some 2,000 persons, civilians and soldiers, turned out yesterday to honor the veteran of four major wars in the colorful and traditional ceremonies that marked the exit of the 84-year-old post from active service in the regular Army.

At midnight tonight the major part of the installation, including 55 of the larger buildings, will pass into the posession of the Ohio National Guard. Reorganization of the Army and congressional budget-trimming ended the first era of the post's history.

Emphasize Service

Each speaker during the half-hour formal ceremonies that accompanied retreat emphasized that Fort Hayes would begin a new chapter in its service as it becomes the central installation of the postwar expanded ONG. The organized reserves of the regular Army and the headquarters of the Ohio military district will become tenants of the state there.

The Army Ground Forces band came from Washington to play a concert on the afternoon public program that preceded the final retreat. The Lockbourne Army Air Base band also played and baseball games helped entertain the visitors.

Notables Present

The formal ceremonies started late in the day when Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, last commanding general of Fort Hayes and wartime commander of the 37th "Buckeye" division drove onto the post as two 155-mm. field guns boomed a 19-gun salute.

The governor and the general inspected two platoons of troops and two Columbus Boy Scout troops who were given the honor of taking part in the ceremonies while the ground forces band played "Beautiful Ohio."

Jilted Portsmouth Man Stabs Girl, Kills Self

(Brush-Moore News Service)

PORTSMOUTH, June 30—Miss Ruth Downes, 28, was given a chance to live today after suffering a six-inch gash in her throat from a pocket knife which police said was wielded by a disappointed suitor.

The suitor, Carl Royal, 32, turned the knife on himself and died on the girl's front porch of stab wounds near his heart.

Doctors said Miss Downes' life was saved by Cecil Johnson, 22-year-old Negro war veteran who stuck his fist in her throat wound and halted the flow of blood. Johnson, who was walking by when she ran screaming from her house, said he learned first aid in the Boy Scouts.

The girl, daughter of a veteran Portsmouth policeman, said she had told Royal on the phone Saturday night that she was going to break off their friendship because he was "too domineering." A short time later, she said, he called at the house and wielded the knife.

FLOOD

threatened by the rising river but the main business, industrial and residential areas were on bluffs away from any effects of high water.

Farms in low-lying areas around St. Louis and nearby communities suffered the greatest damage from inundation. The chain of rocks bridge was closed following the Chouteau levee break, the second bridge across the Mississippi to be closed by flood waters. The Clark bridge at Alton was blocked by water over the road at the Missouri approach.

Other Barriers Critical

Other barriers termed critical by the engineers were the east Carondelet and Dupo levees south of East St. Louis and the Decognia barrier south of Chester.

Both Chester and Cape Girardeau, Mo., prepared for the Mississippi crest which is due at the Illinois town tomorrow and the latter point Wednesday.

Meanwhile, heavy weekend rains brought a sharp rise in streams in Iowa, Illinois and northern Missouri and a fourth crest moved down the Des Moines river threatening to keep the Mississippi out of its banks for at least another 10 days.

Rail traffic north and west of St. Louis was halted when flood water inundated or washed out sections of track and only one highway remained opened between St. Louis and Kansas City.

FIVE RESCUED AFTER 6 WEEKS ON ISLAND

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 30—Five weary and sun-blackened California fishermen, blown 1,000 miles off their course, were enroute back to civilization today after six weeks of near starvation on a desolate Pacific island off the Mexican coast.

The five fisherman, missing with the 45-foot boat Thistle out of San Pedro since May 19, were rescued late Saturday by the tuna clipper Normandie from pin-point Clipperton island, a five square mile coral atoll, some 1,700 miles south of here and 500 miles from the Mexican mainland.

First word from rescuers to the coast guard and navy here indicated the men were in "fair condition," but did not elaborate. The thistle was shattered on the shore, but none of the crew was hurt.

The navy requested the Normandie, a San Diego vessel, to take the fishermen to the Galapagos islands, about 1,800 miles further south, and said it was sending a craft from Panama to pick up the victims.

The thistle's crew members were Capt. William Noble, Charles E. Warren, Gilbert B. Stethe, Robert Marchall and Walter Richards, all of San Pedro.

Veteran fishermen said the boat probably was caught in a "chubasco" storm, the equivalent of a "cyclone at sea," and described tropical Clipperton as "a very bad spot, anytime."

By The Associated Press

PRINCETON, N. J., June 30—A warning was sounded today by Prof. Albert Einstein and a group of associated scientists proclaiming that a full-fledged atom bomb war might break out within eight years.

The atom bomb pioneers said that the United Nations had failed completely in its quest to create a plan for atomic control. They declared the Soviet Union would be a leading producer of the bomb by 1955.

DEATH OF MANSFIELD MAN PUZZLES POLICE

By The Associated Press

MILLERSBURG, O., June 30—The fatal shooting of a Mansfield man on a rural road in southwestern Holmes county Saturday puzzled authorities today, and Holmes County Coroner A. J. Earney withheld his verdict for further study of the case.

The vicum, identified as Dudley H. Martin, 31, of Trailer City, Mansfield rural route 4, was found in a woods about 20 yards off a township road, a 22-caliber rifle bullet hole in his head. The rifle was at his feet.

Martin's car was at the edge of the gravel road, three tires punctured by rifle shots and the headlights and fog lights shot out.

Coroner Earney estimated the man had been dead for 14 to 15 hours when Adam Crump, an aged resident in the vicinity, found the body at about 10 a. m. Sunday.

Martin was a machinist at the Ohio Brass Co. in Mansfield. He is married and father of four children ranging in age from nine weeks to eight years. His wife said he had left the house before she got up Saturday morning and did not tell her where he was going.

5. The collection of fees for "work permits" to allow non-members to work, is outlawed.

6. No union may refuse membership to any employe of an employer with whom it has a compulsory union membership contract.

7. Union members may be expelled only "for good cause." On specific charges and after a hearing, and an expelled member has the right to sue for reinstatement and for damages due to unlawful expulsion.

8. Any person injured by an unlawful strike is authorized to sue the union for damages.

Some Strikes Banned

9. Sympathy, jurisdictioanl or sit-down strikes and illegal boycotts are prohibited. Picketing of an establishment where there is no labor dispute is banned.

10. "Feather bedding," or any practice that requires an employer to pay for services not actually performed or to hire persons not actually needed is prohibited.

11. Any strike that seeks to compel an employer to negotiate with representatives not chosen by a majority of the employes is prohibited.

12. Unions are forbidden to use force or threats to influence workers, to interfere with persons leaving or entering an employer's premises, or to engage in picketing except in a manner "reasonably necessary."

13. Provision is made for damage suits against labor unions and employers' organizations for breach of collective bargaining contracts.

Organizing Right Protected

14. Employers are forbidden to interfere with employes' right to organize, belong to unions and bargain collectively through their own representatives.

For most violations of these provisions, the law sets a penalty of not more than $500 fine or not more than six months' imprisonment or both. The ban on union political expenditures, however, carries a penalty up to $1,000 and one year's imprisonment.

LABOR

1, for a term ending March 31, 1953.

Dr. John D. Porterfield of Columbus to succeed Dr. Roger Herring, who has resigned.

The governor will notify both houses of the legislature that he has up-to-date vetoed one senate and three house acts.

The acts are those proposing to: Reduce the penalties for selling liquor to minors and revise requirements of proof needed to prosecute violators, Gov. Herbert asserting the act "would just about terminate prosecution" of permit holders who violate the ban on sale of liquor to minors.

Include hospitalization for indigents under poor relief.

Extend the defense of policemen and firemen in civil actions arising from performance of their duty.

Permit county commissioners to abolish county welfare departments.

Among the measures signed by Herbert in his cleanup of the mass of legislation approved by solons before they went home two weeks ago was one to regulate strip mining.

The law—first of its kind in the history of the state and the culmination of a 30-year battle—will require strip mine operators to pay a $50 a year registration fee if they produce more than 250 tons of coal in a 12-month period; post a bond of $100 per acre for restoration of the land; spend $50 an acre for reforestation of tripped land and level spoil banks to 15-foot cross sections.

The law becomes operative in 90 days.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT FOILS ARMY REVOLT

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 30—Interior Minister Edouard Depreux announced today the discovery of a "very widespread" plot by an organization known as the Black Maquis to overthrow the French republic and set up a military dictatorship.

Depreux said Gen. Guillaudot, inspector general of the French gendarmerie; Maj. André Loustaneau-Lacau, a rightist resistance leader who before the war acknowledged that he was a member of the anti-republican Cagoulards (hooded ones), and other officers and civilians had been arrested.

A usually reliable semi-official source said earlier that four French generals and several civilians had been implicated.

Depreux told a news conference that whole units of the French army might have been involved.

French press agency dispatches from Rennes, in Brittany, named M. De Vulpian, 47, editor of the weekly France Vivante and president of a veteran's organization, was among those arrested, together with Marc Jacquot, a wine merchant of Montigny, and the rector of the abbey at Lamballe, in Brittany, identified only as Rault.

From documents uncovered during a top secret investigation which has been going on since May, an interior ministry official said, it was learned that the plotters planned to carry out their coup sometime this month.

The documents showed that the conspirators intended to set up a military dictatorship, the official added.

Tally Ho Club, Marion Social Group Of 40 Years Ago, Holds 12th Reunion

The twelfth annual reunion of the Tally Ho club, a young men's social group which was active in Marion about 40 years ago, took place Saturday afternoon and night at Eaglewood club, four miles south of the city. Members were present from Marion and five other cities.

The Tally Ho club rooms occupied the entire second floor of the old Grand Opera House building on South State street, now the site of the Elks' lodge rooms and Ohio theater.

Saturday's reunion started with an informal social session in the afternoon, during which reminiscences of Marion's earlier years were exchanged. At 6:30 dinner was served by Mrs. Marguerite Ramroth, owner of Eaglewood club, on the screened portico of her home near the clubhouse. After dinner the annual business meeting and election of officers took place.

Officers Chosen

Fred Jessop of Youngstown was elected president and John P. Probst of Marion was reelected secretary-treasurer for his fifth consecutive year. Jessop succeeds Charles Rice of Union City, Ind., as president. Because of illness, Mr. Rice was unable to be present. He sent a letter of greetings and regret at inability to attend and also sent gifts made in his factory at Union City for distribution among the Tally Ho members. Charles E. Sechrist of Marion presided in the absence of Mr. Rise.

Brief talks were given by those in attendance and all signed a letter of greetings and appreciation to be sent to Mr. Rice. A resolution expressing thanks to Mrs. Ramroth for her hospitality in granting use of Eaglewood club for the annual meeting was adopted. All the 12 reunions have taken place at Eaglewood and preliminary arrangements were made for holding next year's meeting there.

Former Marionite a Guest

A guest of the Tally Ho's at the reunion was Clayton W. Diebold, former Marion resident now living at Almirante, Republic of Panama, where he is general superintendent of the large United Fruit Co. properties. This was Mr. Diebold's first visit to Marion in 20 years. He attended the reunion in company with his brother, Fred C. Diebold of Buffalo, N. Y., a former president of the Tally Ho reunion group.

Present, in addition to those already named, were: Sam S. Bader of Elyria, B. F. Snider, of Columbus, Ray Robosson of Detroit, Mich., Earl Beicher, Carl Bausinger, Clarence Couts, Harry S. Elliott, William Hochstetter, Fred B. Scherff, Jay Vaughan, M. C. Walters, C. V. Hudson and W. G. Lusch of Marion.

ARMY TRANSPORT, FREIGHTER COLLIDE

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 30—The 7,500 ton army transport St. Albans Victory and the Danish freighter Bolivia collided in fogbound waters off Nantucket today and the transport's crew of 70 and 100 troops and a woman were taking to lifeboats in moderate seas, the Coast Guard reported.

Loaded lifeboats from the fast-sinking transport were sighted by a circling plane as fog began to lift at the crash scene 60 miles off Nantucket.

The St. Albans Victory's master reported pressure from water in the hold was threatening to break up her bulkheads.

The ships crashed about 17 miles southwest of the Nantucket lightship and both suffered "extensive damage" with a seven foot tear in the bow of the Bolivia.

The Coast Guard dispatched a seaplane from Salem in an attempt to pick up some of the lifeboat crews.

The transport was inbound to New York from Leghorn, Italy, and the Bolivia was enroute from New York to Copenhagen.

Reuben R. Rettig Makes Last Trip As Erie Engineer

Reuben R. Rettig of 861 Merkel avenue made his final run on the Erie railroad between Kent and Marion early Sunday, arriving here from Kent at 2:05 a. m.

Starting work with the Erie railroad in the shops at Galion in September, 1898, Mr. Rettig who is now 67, became a fireman in 1901 and was then promoted to engineer in 1909. Since 1940 he has been engineer on a passenger run.

Mrs. Rettig, who had never been a passenger on a train on which her husband was engineer left Marion Saturday afternoon, accompanied by her grandson, Richard Senff Jr., of Newark, to go as far as Akron on Mr. Rettig's last run out of Marion.

Mr. Rettig's plans for the future are to work more with the flowers in his yard in which he takes great pride, and to take a well-earned rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Rettig have two children, Mrs. G. A. Crawley of Aurora, Ill., and Mrs. Richard Senff of Newark, and two grandchildren, Richard Senff of Newark, and Peggy Crawley of Aurora.

lobby" has opened and constructive housing program." He continued:

"Its members have exerted pressure at every point against every proposal for making the housing program more effective.

"They have constantly sought to weaken rent control and to do away with necessary aids to housing. They are openly proud of their success in blocking a comprehensive housing program.

"This group has sought to achieve financial gains without regard for the damage done to others. It has displayed a ruthless disregard of the public welfare.

"This Lobby Intolerable"

"It is intolerable that this lobby should be permitted by its brazen operations to block programs so essential to the needs of our citizens."

The President urged congress to "make a full investigation of the activities of this selfish and short sighted group."

Mr. Truman urged "congress to complete action upon legislation to accomplish the following objectives:

"1. To provide public aid to localities for low rent housing for families in the lowest income group.

"2. To encourage private investment in rental housing by federal insurance.

"3. To provide a more adequate program of farm housing.

"4. To extend aid to our cities for the clearance of slums and blighted areas.

"5. To perfect and supplement existing aids to home financing.

"6. To provide a substantial program of housing research to assist industry in progressively reducing the cost of housing."

Mr. Truman said the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill for a 15-year program of aiding low cost housing and slum clearance "will go far toward accomplishing these objectives."

Audiences jeered Giacomo Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," now one of the most famous operas, when it first was produced in 1904.

STAGE SET FOR MARION'S BIGGEST RACING PROGRAM

17-Day Meet Awaits Starting Gun Tomorrow Night at 8:30

By GEORGE ROEST

Expected to be the biggest race meet in Marion's history, the 17-day Little Grand Circuit starts at the fairground oval tomorrow night.

Post time for the first dash, the maiden pace, is 8:30. Seven races, featured by the WMRN stake, will follow.

More than 500 trotters and pacers are expected to go after part of the $75,000 prize money which is being offered.

Top Drivers Booked

The cast of drivers will be headed by such well known reinsmen as Foy Funderburg, top money winner on the west coast this season; Wayne Smart, driver of the Little Brown Jug winner last year; Doc Parshall, long a favorite of Marion race fans; Doc McMillen, for years one of the top drivers in Ohio; Bob Plaxico, who drove to the wire first more times in 1944 and 1945 than any other Ohio driver; and many others who have carved a permanent niche in harness racing history for themselves.

A. E. Leathermen of Philadelphia will round out the list of veteran administrators secured to run the Marion races. He will act as clerk of the course, a responsibility he has held in Marion for more than 35 years.

Keeps Records

Mr. Leathermen's job is to keep records of the meet for the U. S. Trotting association and to check eligibility of horses.

He is race secretary of the Allentown, Pa., fair. This spring he acted as an official at Harington, Del. and at other tracks in the east.

Other officials who will be working the Little Grand stand are Joe McGraw, Wayne Groves and W. E. Mercer, judges. Paul Young, creator of a harness race starting gate, will act as starter.

The influx of horse flesh at the Marion fairgrounds started yesterday with about 80 arriving to join the 75-odd which were already quartered. Today, Frank Foster, president of the Marion Trotting association, will again be taking care of the stream of arrivals.

The stream will be bolstered after next Wednesday when the races at Fort Miami speedway in Toledo break up and the steeds come from there, fresh from about two weeks of running.

There was some concern last night about the rain, which could throw a wrench into the works if it continued.

Officials believed, though, that if there was no more unfavorable weather, the 8:30 starting time should find things squared away for the launching of Marion's biggest harness race meet.

Cubs Win 2 Out of 3 from Zanesville Over Weekend

Triumph Sunday, 8-6, After Splitting Double Bill Saturday

By DON C. BURTON

The Marion Cubs defeated the Zanesville Dodgers yesterday afternoon, 8-6, after splitting a doubleheader Saturday night by losing the first, 8-3, and winning the finale, 13-6. The game last night was postponed because of rain.

The two wins and the single loss moved the Cubs up to within five and one-half games of the loop leaders. The win yesterday gave Marion the series three to one.

The Cubs are idle today while the Dodgers move over to Lima for a four-day stand. The Newark Browns come to Marion tomorrow night and Wednesday. The Cubs are idle again Thursday and play Lima here in the afternoon July 4 and move to Lima for a night fray.

Fine relief pitching won both contests for the locals over the weekend.

Smith Saves Bacon

Frank Smith took over in Saturday night's second game and held the Dodgers at bay after Gasper Pivorunas was shelled from the hill in the Zanesville third. Smith allowed only three hits the remainder of the route. In this contest Manager Clay Bryant used 17 players in a vain attempt to prevent the loss. Five pitchers toiled for the league leaders with George Seeley being charged with the loss.

In the game yesterday afternoon John Graney, young lefthander, got credit for his first win in pro ball when he took over for Bill Rosin during a big Zanesville six runs. Graney took over with the bases full in the fifth with one out. He allowed a runner to steal home on his slow windup, but otherwise he put out the fire. The only hit Graney gave up was a double by Bartholomew in the eighth.

Graney also hurled well during the game in which Edington started and lost Saturday night. He came on in the sixth with one out after a homer by Belcik off Edington. The first batter touched

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, June 30—Ashley Independents defeated Mt. Vernon McMillen Feed team, 7-0. It was a no-hitter for Wetzel, the Ashley pitcher. He also had ten strikeouts. The Mt. Vernon team had one error and Ashley had none. Higgins caught for Ashley. McMillen was on the mound for Mt. Vernon and Beatty was catcher.

Ashley will play Utica next Sunday at 1:30 on the Ashley school diamond.

WHITE SOX SHOVE INDIANS TO FIFTH

Cleveland Calls on Feller and Embree Against Browns.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, June 30—Rudely shoved from a briefly-held third to fifth place by the Chicago White Sox, the Cleveland Indians open a series of two night games tonight with the lowly St. Louis Browns.

For the pitching chores, Manager Lou Boudreau selected Red Embree and Bob Feller.

The Tribe took three in a row from the White Sox, but yesterday the Sox became uncooperative in the ninth inning and came up with a 4-3 triumph. A second game was rained out.

The score stood at 3-3 and with one away Bob Kennedy lined a long triple to right field. George Dickey, the next man up, bounded a single to Joe Gordon and Kennedy was out trying to run home.

On the play, Dicky stole second after Umpire Art Passarella ruled Boudreau missed the tag. Both Boudreau and Gordon protested.

Anyway, Passarella's decision stood, and Dickey scored the fourth and final run a couple of minutes later after Taft Wright, batting for Cass Michaels, slipped a single past first.

It was the first time Boudreau had played in five plays because of an ankle injury, and his game-tying hit in the eighth inning marked the 15th straight in which he has hit safely.

Pat Seerey homered for the Indians and Luke Appling got one for the White Sox.

Scorekeepers Go Nuts As Reds, Cards Split

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, June 30—Thirty-six runs, 44 hits for 60 bases, nine errors—just a few totals compiled by scorekeepers as they nursed headaches after the Cincinnati-St. Louis doubleheader here yesterday.

The Reds won the first game, 9-7, and the Cards romped off with the second, 17-2.

Enos Slaughter, the Cards' belting leftfielder, batted in 10 runs—seven in the second game—with five hits, three of them doubles, in 11 trips to the plate.

St. Louis used 21 players in the first game and Cincinnati 18 in the nightcap. In all, 13 pitchers were called.

Johnny Vander Meer got credit for the Reds' win although he went out in the eighth when the Cards erupted with six runs on four singles and three walks.

The Reds chased Murry Dickson, Cardinal starter, in the first inning, scoring five runs on as many hits. Eddie Miller hit his 13th home run of the season with Augie Galan aboard in the third inning.

In the second game, St. Louis had a 14-hit holiday at the expense of Bucky Walters, Eddie Erautt, Elmer Riddle and John Helki. Walters, the loser, lasted 1 1-3 innings, with the Cards counting three times in the initial frame on a base on balls and two hits—including Ron Northey's two-run homer.

UNDER THE CHIN. Charley Fusari (right) of Irvington, N. J., takes it on the chin from Tony Pellone of New York during their Madison Square Garden welter bout. Pellone was awarded the decision in 10 rounds.

Hill's 2-Run Homer Brings Victory To Marion Legion

Jim Hill's two-run homer featured the 15-9 victory the Marion American Legion junior squad posted over Delaware there Saturday afternoon.

It was the second start for the Marion squad and their first win. Their other start was a 5-5 draw wtih Lima. It was Delaware's first start.

Delaware is scheduled here July 12 and July 13 Marion will play at Galion. Other games may be scheduled before then.

This week they will play a practice game with the Blue Birds Tuesday and the Independents Wednesday. Both games will start at 6 p. m.

Intra-City Nines For Young Local Ballplayers Set

Youths, who did not reach their sixteenth birthday by the first of the year, will get an opportunity to play baseball under a sponsored and supervised program at city parks, this summer.

Bird-McGinnis Post 162 of American Legion, working with the city recreation commission, will sponsor a league of youthful ball players.

Organization of the program will be started this week, and a meeting of all boys who indicate interest in the league will be held at the Dugout next Monday afternoon.

H. George Roest has been named by the American Legion to handle organization of the city league and his son, George Roest, has been named as his aide.

Legion Footing Bill

The American Legion will provide some of the equipment necessary to a program and the recreation commission has agreed to make available equipment at the parks to the teams, to give diamond preference to scheduled league games, and to supervise the games during the week.

W. N. Wiley and Max Sechrist directors of McKinley park and Garfield park respectively will supervise the games.

The aim of the program is to have about eight teams active. It is desired that an adult have a hand in organizing each team.

Team entry blanks will be distributed some time this week and the first games should be held in about two weeks.

Nelson Irvin, coach of the American Legion junior baseball team has highly indorsed such a program, and Joseph Petrich, director of the city recreation program has pledged support.

Several purposes will be served by the program, chief among them being that it will give Marion boys a chance for recreation and will feed the American Legion junior team which carries Marion's banner against other city's teams. Every boy who is active in this league will be eligible for the Legion team next year.

TOURNEY SITE NAMED

MANSFIELD, O., June 30—The Ohio Amateur Baseball association named Ravenna as the probable site for this year's state tournament in a meeting here yesterday. The tournament will be held Sept. 6-7 or 13-14, following district play-offs, at places to be designated July 15. Stanley W. Kamen, Mansfield recreation director was elected association treasurer.

MUNCIE'S PACKERS DUMP GIANTS TWICE

Newark Whips Lima; Other OSL Games Rained Out.

By The Associated Press

Rain washed out one Ohio State league doubleheader yesterday and stopped the play of nightcaps in two others, but the Muncie, Ind., Packers completed a twin bill on their home field with 8-6 and 8-0 victories over the Springfield Giants.

The victories gave the Packers a clean sweep of their five-game series with last year's champions and knocked Springfield out of the first division.

The Newark Browns won a slugfest from the Lima Terriers at Lima 11-9, with Newark catcher Pat Aucoin contributing the big smash—a fifth inning homer with the bases loaded. The second game was rained out.

A doubleheader scheduled between Richmond and Dayton at Dayton was called off because of the weather.

SEMI-PROS MAY GET GAME WITH BRUINS

Marion's top independent semi-pro baseball team will probably get a crack at the Cubs sometime in August.

Plans, which call for a tournament between the locally sponsored outfits, are currently in the embryo stage, but should materialize soon.

Harold Smith, sponsor of the Marion Crystals, has advocated a tournament between the Marion baseball teams, the winner to challenge the local Ohio State league crew.

The proposal was received favorably by Judge W. Dexter Hazen, president of the Cubs, when contacted by Smith.

Four teams could compete for the game with the Bruins, and there is a possiblity of five. Teams now playing are the Crystals, the Blue Birds, Schlairet Transfer and Sammy's Nite Club. Another is being formed.

LeRoy Harvey, Blue Bird manager, is also enthusiastic about such a tournament. Kenny Somerlot, Schlairet manager, was undecided when contacted about the tournament, because of conditions concerning his ball club, but it is believed he can be counted on to have his crew in. Manager Bob Higgins of Sammy's had not been contacted.

Newhouser's Jinx Puts Detroit In Running

By The Associated Press

Detroit's tough luck Tigers are back in the running today mainly on account of Hal Newhouser's inexplicable jinx over the St. Louis Browns.

Prince Hal, the number one lefthander in the American league, handcuffed the Browns with his southpaw slants for the 15th time yesterday as the Tigers took both ends of the doubleheader 7-5 and 6-1.

In winning their fourth straight at home, the injury-riddled Bengals climbed into a third place tie with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Trout Wins 7th

Paul (Dizzy) Trout hung up his seventh triumph in the nightcap before he retired in the sixth inning with a sore arm. Alton Benton finished for the Tigers and did not allow a hit in three innings.

Billy Southworth, astute manager of the Boston Braves, who changes lineups practically with the shifting of the winds, allowed only one player, Bob Elliott, to play his position through both games with the Philadelphia Phils.

And Elliott it was who drove in the winning run in the first game and who was the batting star of the second as the Braves beat the Phils twice 8-7 in 10 innings and 4-2.

Robinson Breaks Out

Although Jackie Robinson enjoyed his best day as a major leaguer, the Dodgers could not get better than a split with the Giants before 52,147 fans at the Polo grounds. Brooklyn won the first 4-3 and lost the second 9-5. Robby drove in the tying run with a ninth inning single in the opener and scored the winning run on Arky Vaughan's pinch single after he had stolen second. The Negro flash got four hits in five times at bat in the second game to extend his hitting streak to 16 consecutive games.

Kirby Higbe won his 100th major league game when he pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 10-4 win over the Cubs in Chicago.

Boston fandom, overjoyed at the Braves climb into first place in the National, was somewhat sobered by the Red Sox' double setback at the hands of the Athletics 3-2 and 6-5. Ted Williams banged his 13th four bagger for the Red Sox in the finale.

The Yankees and Senators split a doubleheader in Washington, the Nats winning the opener 5-1 and the Yankees taking the second game 3-1.

GALION DOWNED, 9-3, BY UNBEATEN LOCALS

The Marion Crystals are still undefeated today after beating the Galion Merchants, 9 to 3, yesterday afternoon in Galion with 13 hits scored. Galion chalked up eight hits and the only error was made by the Galion team. Roseberry pitched to Anderson for the local team. P. Burgraff to W. Gurgraff for Galion. Walters set the pace with three hits while Cook, Anderson, R. Culver and Loper each got two hits.

FIRM SPOTS PERSIST IN STOCK MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 30—Firm spots persisted in today's stock market although many leaders were unable to emerge from losing territory

Dealings slowed from the opening until around midday when there was a fairly active and selective recovery flurry

The cloudy labor picture highlighted by the soft coal impasse threatening important industries, again served to restrain bidders

Several oils including Shamrock, Standard of Cal and Shell Union established further 1947 tops as fuel shortages buoyed this group Ahead at intervals were General Motors Chrysler, U S Steel Bethlehem, U S Rubber Montgomery Ward Du Pont, U S Gypsum Texas Co, Standard Oil (NJ), Schenley Joy Mfg, Anaconda Wire North American Anaconda Copper, N Y Central and Great Northern Railway

Occasional laggards were Goodrich Woolworth Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Electric Power and Light Public Service of N J, J I Case, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott American Smelting Allied Chemical, General Electric, Owens-Illinois Norfolk and Western Santa Fe Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I ROSE at Katharine's behest, went to the bedroom door and noiselessly turned the key in the lock.

"No interruptions without warning now," I said, as she went toward the telephone. "But I think you'll find that Dr. Twitchell has guessed Mary's fear about her failing memory."

"Didn't we all?" she retorted. "That was fairly obvious, only we couldn't bring it out into the open and discuss it before she was ready to speak. You're to be congratulated on smashing that barrier.

"But this other phobia is something else again," she went on. "I didn't dream of that, and I know neither you nor Dicky did, either. Dr. Twitchell may have had some inkling. I'll know when I've talked to him today. Thank you for locking that door. I can do beautifully for the next few minutes without any fear of interruptions."

She took down the telephone receiver, and the one-sided conversation was terse but illuminative.

"Dr. Twitchell's office?" she asked. "Is he there? May I speak to him? Thank you. Dr. Twitchell? Mrs. Bickett. No, nothing special, but something has come up about which I think you should know as soon as possible. I think we have discovered the underlying cause, and it is worse than either you or I guessed. But, of course, I cannot discuss it over the telephone. An hour? That will be splendid, Dr. Twitchell. When you come, Mrs. Graham will see you first in the sitting room. Then she will announce your coming to our patient. And will you please have some excuse ready for your earlier call? She is very jittery today. Mrs. Graham will tell you why when you see her and then, of course, I shall report to you before you see Mrs. Veritzen. Thank you, Doctor. Good-bye."

Relief in Her Eyes

She turned from the telephone and though her face was poised, as always, I saw relief in her eyes.

"He will be here in an hour," she said, "as you no doubt have gathered, and will I be glad!"

"I gathered that, too," I told her demurely, and she wrinkled her nose at me.

Then I stole silently to the bedroom door and unlocked it.

"Our world is now safe for democracy and normalcy," I intoned.

"Leave us hope!" she said dolorously. "It's a million years until tomorrow morning and Harriet's message."

I came slowly back to the table, sat down, and mechanically poured an extra cup of tea for each of us.

"If Harriet's message is favorable," I asked, "and Mary reacts as you expect, there will be no more danger of this suicidal mood returning?"

Her hesitation was slight, but perceptible.

"I would be willing to wager a good sum that the danger will be over," she said. "But—an idee fixe—it's something hard to rid oneself of that. On the whole, though, I should say that Mary would be safe."

"What about the bars?" I asked hesitantly.

"That's a poser," she said. "You've vowed to High Heaven that the bars were put on at your father's orders because of his fear of treasonable espionage. Of course, Mary knew better, but you carried the bluff with a high hand and she pretended to believe you. Now, if they are hurried off, you'll acknowledge yourself an anointed liar. On the other hand, if you keep them on, she'll believe we are still doubting her sanity."

A Stone Wall

"That looks like a stone wall," I said.

"Or the irresistible force meeting the immovable body," she gibed. But something in her voice raised my spirits, by now almost at the nadir.

"I'm wagering that you've thought of a solution," I said.

"Nothing so comforting," she answered, "but this may serve. Leave the bars, sticking stoutly to the text that your father ordered them, and I'll propose that Noel take her to a night club, or for an Atlantic City weekend, or something exciting. That will prove to her that we think she's over her phobia."
